The Cadet Prayer

Almighty God, the source of light and strength, we implore Thy blessing on this our beloved institution, that it may continue true to its high purposes.

Guide and strengthen those upon whom rests the authority of government; enlighten with wisdom those who teach and those who learn; and grant to all of us that through sound learning and firm leadership, we may prove ourselves worthy citizens of our country, devoted to truth, given to unselfish service, loyal to every obligation of life and above all to Thee.

Preserve us faithful to the ideals of The Citadel, sincere in fellowship, unswerving in duty, finding joy in purity, and confidence through a steadfast faith.

Grant to each one of us, in his own life, an humble heart, a steadfast purpose, and a joyful hope, with a readiness to endure hardship and suffer if need be, that truth may prevail among us and that Thy will may be done on earth. Through Jesus Christ, Our Lord.—Amen.

(Composed for the Centennial by Bishop Albert S. Thomas, Ret'd.,
First Honor Graduate, Class of 1892.)

The Citadel Code

To revere God, love my country, and be loyal to The Citadel. To be faithful, honest, and sincere in every act and purpose and to know that honorable failure is better than success by unfairness or cheating.

To perform every duty with fidelity and conscientiousness and to make duty my watchword.

To obey all orders and regulations of The Citadel and of proper authority.

To refrain from intoxicants, narcotics, licentiousness, profanity, vulgarity, disorder, and anything that might subject me to reproach or censure within or without the college.

To be diligent in my academic studies and in my military training.

To do nothing inconsistent with my status as a cadet and gentleman.

To take pride in my uniform and in the noble traditions of the college and never do anything that would bring discredit to them.

To be courteous and gentlemanly in my deportment, bearing, and speech, and to exhibit good manners on all occasions.

To cultivate dignity, poise, affability, and a quiet and firm demeanor.

To make friends with refined, cultivated, and intellectual people.

To improve my mind by reading and participation in intellectual and cultural activities.

To keep my body healthy and strong by physical exercises and participation in manly sports.

To be generous and helpful to others and to endeavor to restrain them from wrongdoing.

To face difficulties with courage and fortitude and not to complain or be discouraged.

To be worthy of the sacrifices of my parents, the generosity of the state, and the efforts of all who teach and all who administer the college in order that I might receive an education and to recognize my obligation to them.

To make the college better by reason of my being a cadet.

To resolve to carry its standards into my future career and to place right above gain and a reputation for integrity above power.

To remember always that the honor of being a "Citadel man" imposes upon me a corresponding obligation to live up to this code.

The foregoing code is earnestly commended to all cadets as an interpretation of the ideals of The Citadel.

Written by Gen. Charles P. Summerall,
President, 1931-1953

Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I—
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference."*

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE FOR THE 1979-80 GUIDON

Welcome to The Citadel. As a member of the Class of 1983, you join a unique fraternity of men who have made this institution strong and responsive to the needs of our society—both civilian and uniformed. Our business here is traditional education in an ordered, structured environment that will test your mental agility, your physical endurance, and develop an individual and team spirit. You've been selected on the basis of educational aptitude, character, and motivation, and it is on this solid foundation that what you learn here will be built. You'll have the opportunity to expand your mind through formal classroom studies and the experience of living in a community of common interests and goals. To meet the challenge of preparing the whole man for leadership, The Citadel's academic program is demanding, and the disciplined campus life is rigorous. You and your classmates are embarking on an academic experiment that has proved its validity for nearly 150 years. At The Citadel you follow proud footsteps on the path to a productive and successful life; here you develop that traditional citizenship that supports America's freedom.

Vice Admiral James Bond Stockdale, USN, Ret.

James Bond Stockdale was born in Abingdon, Ill., December 23, 1923. He was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1946. Previously, he studied at Monmouth College from which he received the Distinguished Alumnus Award in 1977. He was awarded the Master of Arts degree by Stanford University in 1962.

A nationally-known writer and lecturer, his material has been widely published, and he has been the subject of complimentary national media articles and editorials. Many of his public addresses and articles have been entered into the Congressional Record.

During the twenty years following his graduation from the Naval Academy, he served successively as a destroyerman, carrier aviator, landing signal officer, test pilot, test pilot school instructor, fighter pilot, graduate student, aircraft squadron commander, and air wing commander.

Admiral Stockdale had more flight time in the supersonic F-8 single seat fighter than any man in the world when he led the initial strikes from a carrier deck in the Tonkin Gulf against North Vietnam in 1964. Shot down and captured over a year later during his second combat tour in Vietnam, he spent most of his 7½ years of imprisonment in solitary confinement. Despite repeated torture and years of restraint in leg irons and handcuffs, he maintained contact with his fellow Americans by clandestine means, setting standards and policy for the prisoners' organization and united resistance.

Upon his release in 1973, he was promoted to rear admiral and assigned as the commander of the Anti-Submarine Warfare Wing of the U.S. Pacific Fleet.

A Congressional Medal of Honor winner, he was the most highly-decorated officer in the Navy, wearing 25 personal combat decorations including two Distinguished Flying Crosses, ten Air Medals, the Legion of Merit, two Distinguished Service Medals, four Silver Stars, and two Purple Hearts.

Admiral Stockdale is president of his Naval Academy class, a Naval Academy Foundation Trustee, and a member of Sons of the American Revolution, Ends of the Earth Society, American Academy of Achievement, MENSA (international society to conduct research on people of high intelligence), and the Congressional Medal of Honor Society.

He was named to the presidency of the Naval War College in 1977 with immediate past experience as the director of the Strategy, Plans and Policy Division of the Chief of Naval Operations.

Admiral Stockdale's wife, Sybil, is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College and a recipient of the M.A. degree from Stanford. The Stockdales have four sons: James, Sidney, Stanford, and Taylor.

Admiral Stockdale became the fifteenth president of The Citadel in September 1979.

Vice President's Message

Welcome to The Citadel—a great and widely known institution of higher learning, chartered one hundred and thirty-seven years ago—alma mater to more than 13,575 living former students who hold positions of trust, authority, and service throughout South Carolina and all of the states of this free nation.

We are pleased you have chosen The Citadel as your college. The Citadel has chosen you, as well. Our choice was made in the belief that you understand and respect the proud reputation and high purpose of this military college. From this day you are stamped with the unerasable mark of The Citadel and from this day your works and accomplishments, your actions, and attitudes will contribute to or detract from the honor of your school.

You are enrolling in a multi-purpose institution established by the people of South Carolina—an institution which has the primary goal of stimulating within you the lasting spirit of intellectual curiosity which is the central ingredient of progress.

Above all, remind yourself daily that you are investing a portion of your life on this campus. The investment is worthwhile only if you obtain the finest education possible. The Citadel has a skilled faculty with excellent facilities, dedicated to offering you this education. But the decision to communicate with these faculty and to use these facilities to the fullest extent possible is yours alone.

I wish you success at The Citadel.

George F. Meenaghan
Brigadier General
Vice President for Academic Affairs

Commandant's Message

To you, the newly inducted members of the South Carolina Corps of Cadets, I bid a warm welcome to The Citadel. You and your class are yet another link in that chain of Citadel men that has been perpetuated for more than 136 years—the Class of 1982 is a guarantee of the lengthening and continuation of that chain.

Although you are entering what will be the most challenging and demanding period of your life, thousands of your Citadel predecessors have successfully met and coped with these same challenges and demands, contributing of themselves in the process, and carrying with them the real and genuine rewards that The Citadel experience provides. Your presence here is an indication of your thoughtfulness and awareness of the values and the rewards that come from a Citadel education. Your ability to reap these rewards will be a product of your determination, your adaptability, your willingness to subordinate self to Corps, and your individual will to succeed.

Many of you are away from home and family and operating on your own abilities and resources for the first time. Your ability to progress, despite these conditions, should be strengthened by the knowledge that so many have preceded you and so many more will follow you under the same circumstances here at The Citadel. Are you less a man than they?

Understandably, many of you have not yet been able to set a long-range lifetime goal. This, of course, will come with time, experience, and exposure. However, the man with a goal and with an idea of those avenues that can lead to his goal is already far ahead of his college contemporaries. The Citadel provides a variety of experienced professors, military officers, and a cadet chain of command to assist you in your goals and establishing both the learning process and in identifying required priorities in order to achieve success. These experienced educators and successful cadets are here to assist you—you will be remiss if you do not actively seek their counsel and guidance.

You are to be congratulated on having selected The Citadel and on having been accepted as a cadet. May the same sense of values, personal qualities, and spirit that led you here prevail during your coming four years.

John K. Gibler
Colonel, Infantry
Commandant of Cadets
Class of 1952

Honor

The development of character and integrity in the members of the Corps of Cadets is a basic objective of The Citadel. The Cadet Honor Code and System are recognized as the means through which this objective is attained. The Honor Manual explains the details of the Honor System. Each cadet is obligated to abide by The Honor Code.

The Honor System of the Corps of Cadets

In a world of changing and declining moral values, one trait distinguishes men one from the other more clearly than race, creed, or color—honor. Today, more than at any other time in history, the destiny of the world rests on the high hope we take from the honorable men among us.

Not completely definable and often intangible, honor feeds the spirit and soul of him who takes it as his way of life. The man who speaks no untruth and does not steal the work of another's mind or hand gives and receives benefit beyond measure.

Honor cannot be enforced by threat or punishment. It must be freely embraced and treasured, not for the material benefits which it inevitably brings but for its consequent deep inner peace.

At many other institutions, honor systems have not worked. Honor is here at The Citadel. Those activities of your past life that were less than honorable must be forgotten. Habits and actions that would in any way compromise the honor of The Citadel and your personal honor must be remedied prior to entering the gates of The Citadel. Honor must be accepted by all. Those individuals who remain indifferent to the Honor System will be asked to resign from The Citadel. The penalty for honor violations is harsh, but the reasoning behind the honor code is sound.

Honor cannot be measured in degrees. One is an honorable man or he is not. In our society today, honor has become an even more treasured asset as we witness politicians and other respected leaders participating in less than honorable activities. Valuable is the man who remains stern and strong with honor as his guide; respect and self-fulfillment will be his rewards. The concept of honor is meant to be carried away with The Citadel man after graduation. Situations arise when truthful statements and honorable actions may be depended on by those individuals whose very lives may be at stake.

Seek honor and make it your creed. Your alma mater will give you many rewards if you measure up to her stern standards—a fine education, a healthy body, and lifelong friends. But her greatest award is reserved for those among you for whom The Citadel and honor shall be synonymous.

The Honor Code

The Honor Code is a code of, by, and for the Corps of Cadets. It states that a cadet does not lie, cheat, or steal, nor tolerate those who do. The purpose of the Honor System is to maintain honor and integrity within the Corps. There are only four violations of the Honor Code:

I. Lying: Making a false statement. An official statement is defined as a statement, written or oral, made to a commissioned officer of the staff or faculty of the college, a member of the guard, or any cadet required in turn to use the statement as a basis for an official report in any form.

II. Cheating: Receiving or giving aid on a test or examination. Plagiarism is also a violation of the Honor Code.

III. Stealing: Taking without authority personal, government, or college property.

IV. Failure to Report a Violation of the Code: Failure to report a case of lying, cheating, or stealing as defined above to the Honor Committee authorities.

The Honor Committee

An Honor Committee of firstclassmen is elected by the Corps of Cadets—one from each company and one from each battalion. All reports of violations of the Honor Code, investigations thereof, and the proceedings of any trials held will be kept confidential by members of the Honor Committee. The Honor Committee shall have the following duties:

1. To sit as members of the Honor Court and to try all cases which involve violations of the Honor Code.
2. To decide upon the propriety of incriminating questions which are asked of cadets which are brought to its attention.
3. To keep the Corps informed of new interpretations of the code, to explain such interpretations, and by timely and continuing announcements to insure that all have a thorough understanding of the Honor System.
4. To reorient and refresh the three upper classes on the Honor System at the beginning of each academic year.
5. To orient and instruct the new fourth class in the principles, purposes, and practices of the Honor System.
6. To keep current and distribute an honor manual which describes the Honor System and its workings in considerable detail.

The Honor Court

The Honor Court shall function for the trial of such cases as may be brought before it and shall be governed by the following:

1. Its composition will include not less than 9 members of the Honor Committee.

2. Voting on an honor violation will take place in closed court by secret written ballot. All members of the court present must cast a ballot.

3. A vote of 'guilty' by all the members of the Honor Court present at the trial is required to convict a cadet. In case the accused is found 'not guilty,' all records pertaining to the report of the violation, the investigation thereof, and the proceedings of the trial will be destroyed. In case the accused is found 'guilty,' he will be advised that he may resign or appeal to a Board of Review within five days.

4. The president of the college has the right to review any and all cases which come before the Honor Court.

Amendments, modifications, or other proposed changes in the Honor System must be ratified by a three-fourths vote of the three upper classes during the first semester of any year and approved by the president. During the second semester a ratification vote by three-fourths of the Cadet Corps and approved by the president will be required to change the Honor System.

History

THE HISTORY OF THE CITADEL

The Very name "The Citadel" evokes visions of military might and power, and indeed even before the formal opening of the Military Academy of South Carolina, The Citadel represented a force for protection and strength. In December 1822 the legislature of the State of South Carolina passed an act to establish a protective force in Charleston to occupy a building previously used for tobacco inspection.

In 1833, a similar law was passed which established "The Arsenal" in Columbia for a similar purpose.

In November 1842 Governor J. P. Richardson presented a convincing argument for combining the military duties of the guards in The Arsenal and The Citadel with a system of education for the poor but deserving boys of the state. On December 20, 1842, the legislature passed a law establishing a Board of Visitors for the two schools and on March 20, 1843, the two schools began operation. General James Jones was the first chairman of the Board of Visitors and to him must go much of the credit for channeling Citadel and Arsenal achievements into the path they were to follow. He decided to provide The Citadel and The Arsenal students with a military education which would provide them with the training needed in time of conflict, but which would also provide knowledge in the practical arts and sciences for service as citizens in time of peace.

During the first three years of operations, both The Citadel and The Arsenal operated on an equal basis, but in 1845 The Arsenal became a subsidiary school which took only first-year students and The Citadel continued as a four-year college.

The academic year began on New Year's Day, and commencement exercises were held in late November of each year. The first commencement was in 1846 at which time six men graduated, and Charles C. Tew became the "first honor graduate." The graduation was held in the midst of the excitement incident to the beginning of the Mexican War. The "Palmetto Regiment," a volunteer regiment of South Carolina troops, arrived on campus and was promptly trained for battle by Citadel cadets. Later, these cadet-trained soldiers distinguished themselves in the campaigns south of the Rio Grande. The Palmetto Regiment's flag, which was first introduced at The Citadel, was the first to fly over Mexico City.

During the antebellum period, several expansion measures to improve cadet barracks were incorporated. Yellow fever menaced the Corps on five separate occasions: 1843, 1849, 1852, 1854, and 1856. Discipline and academic requirements were strict during this period to ensure an elite product for the young institution. Of the 550 boys who attended The Citadel and The Arsenal during the first decade, 22 percent failed and 20 percent were dismissed for misconduct. But The Citadel continued to grow in size and influence until 1865.

To The Citadel belongs the honor of firing the first shot of the War Between the States. On January 9, 1861, a battery of four guns manned by Citadel cadets under the command of Major P. F. Stevens opened fire upon the supply ship "Star of the West," preventing it from supplying Fort Sumter. Cadet G. E. Haynsworth pulled the lanyard on the first gun, and Cadet S. B. Pickens fired the second shot. After being hit three times, the ship turned about and put out to sea.

This was the first of eight occasions that The Citadel was called upon to defend Charleston or South Carolina. The pike on the regimental colors carries the following battle streamers:

1. Star of the West, January 9, 1861
2. Wappo Cut, November 1861
3. James Island, June 1862

4. Charleston and Vicinity, July to October 1863
5. James Island, June 1864
6. Tulifinny, December 1864
7. James Island, December 1864 to February 1865
8. Williamston, May 1, 1865
9. Confederate States Army

The Citadel fought in eight engagements and The Arsenal in four, but they fought together in only one, the Battle of Tulifinny, in which they joined forces to delay the battle-hardened troops of Sherman 10 days while the city of Savannah was evacuated.

Several occasions of actual fighting with the enemy and prolonged picket duty in defense of Charleston took a toll within the Corps. Cadet J. B. Paterson was mortally wounded on December 7, 1864, at the Battle of Tulifinny, and Cadets R. F. Nichols, J. Culbreath, G. O. Buck, T. A. Johnson, and R. Nobel died from diseases induced by the exposure and hardship of service.

In addition to the organized service by the Cadet Corps, cadets from The Citadel and The Arsenal formed a "Cadet Company" which joined Wade Hampton and received several citations for gallantry during its four years of service.

Many Citadel graduates served as officers for the Confederacy. There were one major general, three brigadier generals, 17 colonels, 10 lieutenant colonels and 22 majors as well as numerous junior officers and enlisted men. R. A. Palmet, Class of 1852, was the first of 42 to give his life for the Confederacy.

Then followed 17 years of military occupation when The Citadel served as occupation headquarters for Union troops. During this period, the college suffered burning and looting so that only a shell remained when it was returned to South Carolina in 1882. During Sherman's capture of Columbia, The Arsenal had been entirely destroyed by fire. When the institution reopened on October 2, 1882, it was a much different institution from the one begun in 1842.

No longer was it necessary to guard munitions, and there no longer were military duties to perform, but the first superintendent under the new regime, Col. J. P. Thomas, was determined to reinstate the same military system which had made The Citadel distinctive, and he brought back the traditional discipline into the codes and structures of cadet life. This discipline was vividly exemplified four years later when Cadet James Thomas Coleman won the title of "Best Drilled Cadet in the United States" in a competition in New Orleans. Beginning in 1886, an annual competition for the best-drilled cadet was instituted which was again won by Cadet Coleman. In 1893, the Star of the West Medal was first awarded to the "best-drilled cadet" and was won by Cadet A. E. Legare.

The first commandant of cadets was appointed in 1890. He was Lt. John A. Tower, professor of military science and tactics. Up until this time the preservation of interior discipline had been the responsibility of the superintendent; after this time it became the responsibility of the commandant.

Although The Citadel did not fight as a unit in the War with Spain in 1898, it did give its full support to the U.S. Government. Twenty-two Citadel men fought in the war.

Changing educational patterns forced a change in the name of The Citadel, The Military Academy of South Carolina. Increasingly the term academy had come to indicate a secondary school instead of a college, and graduates were beginning to have problems with graduate school admission. In 1910, the state legislature changed the legal name to "The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina," and changed the title of the presiding officer from superintendent to president.

During World War I, Citadel men were in the first contingents of American troops that went overseas to fight with English and French divisions. Some had joined the Allies before the United States became involved in the conflict. In 1915, while serving with British artillery in Flanders, Lt. Montague Nichols fell in battle. After the United States had entered the war, the first Citadel man to give his life was Lt. John H. David, Class of 1914, who died March 1, 1918. In total, the number of Citadel graduates in service during World War I was 316.

The most remarkable event in the history of the college is the building of the Greater Citadel, the accomplishment, in the space of a dozen years, of an expansion and growth undreamed of by most of its friends. The people of Charleston had long realized the value of The Citadel, and some citizens had realized its potentialities with regard to its development into a large, strong institution. As a result, in 1918 the City of Charleston offered the state a tract of land adjacent to the Ashley River for the erection of a Greater Citadel.

Work was formally begun on the Greater Citadel with a dedication ceremony on November 25, 1920. By the spring of 1922, one great barracks building for the accommodation of 450 cadets, the wings of the college building for the instruction (the main building being left for the future), and the auxiliary buildings—mess hall, power house, shops, and laundry—were completed. A much-needed hospital was soon added in 1923.

And thus, after 80 years of occupation of the historic building on The Citadel Green, the institution prepared to move to its present site. The last commencement exercises of the old Citadel were held June 13, 1922, at the Hibernian Hall in Charleston. The graduating class with 54 members, was the largest up to that time in the history of the school.

From the opening of the Greater Citadel until the present, the prestige of the college has steadily grown. The Corps of Cadets, the alumni, the faculty, and the Board of Visitors have striven earnestly to raise the standards of the institution by making entrance requirements more difficult and by improving the curriculum. The Citadel was elected to membership in the Southern Association of Colleges on December 5, 1924.

As the enrollment steadily increased, the construction of another barracks became imperative. In 1925, Mr. Andrew B. Murray of Charleston contributed $150,000 for the much-needed building. The state appropriated a like amount, and the construction of Murray Barracks was begun immediately. Within the next three years the enrollment almost doubled. The increase in the size of the Corps of Cadets necessitated the extension and completion of Bond Hall, the mess hall, the construction of the Armory, and two more barracks. It was also necessary to expand the physical plant of the school. As the physical features of The Citadel expanded, so did its intellectual horizons. In 1929 the Board of Visitors was granted the privilege of conferring honorary degrees. In World War II, Citadel men were again performing military duties for their country. Of approximately 4,000 undergraduates who attended The Citadel during the war years, over 99 percent served in the armed services. This fact gives The Citadel the honor of having the largest percentage of its students to enter the service, with the exception of the national military academy at West Point. Of the 2,976 living graduates in 1946, 2,927 served their country.

The list of decorations received by Citadel men in World War II is far too long to be included here. However, the following decorations have been awarded to a multitude of alumni: Distinguished Service Medal, Silver Star, Legion of Merit, Bronze Stars and Clusters, and several foreign decorations, including the French Legion of Honor. Perhaps the most decorated alumnus of World War II was Captain Roland Wooten of the United States Army Air Corps.

Probably the most famous officer was Major Thomas D. Howie, "the Major of St. Lo." One day before that French city was taken, he was killed giving his company commanders final instructions on the conduct of battle. So gallant were his actions that his division commander paid him the highest military honor by having his body brought into the city first and by parading the whole battalion for him.

A Citadel man, Captain Jack R. Millar, Class of 1939, flew the invasion plans from General Eisenhower to President Roosevelt. Lieutenant Robert L. Bedle was the first to die in action, and before the end of the war, 279 Citadel men gave their lives.

During the fighting in Korea, Citadel men again served in a war of worldwide importance, and once again they died for their country.

During the tragic war in Vietnam sixty-five Citadel men made the supreme sacrifice.

Several former presidents of The Citadel have been outstanding military leaders who achieved great fame in the United States Army before coming to The Citadel to lead it in its continued growth in prestige and reputation.

General Charles Pelot Summerall served as Commanding General of the First Army in World War I and as Chief of Staff of the U.S. Army prior to his appointment to The Citadel in 1931. He served as president until 1954. During his administration, the Summerall Chapel and Capers Hall were built.

In 1954, General Mark W. Clark became president of The Citadel after a career seldom equalled for brilliance in the annals of the U.S. Army. He served as American Commander in the invasion of Africa; he spearheaded the Fifth Army and its conquest of Italy. After World War II, he served as Military Governor of Austria and as Allied Commander in the Korean War. He also served as Military Governor of Japan and the Ryukyu Islands. During his administration, Mark Clark Hall, the Library and Museum, the Beach Club, and Jenkins Hall were built, and many other improvements were made on the campus. Also during his administration The Citadel purchased the Johnson Hagood Stadium.

On July 1, 1965, General Hugh P. Harris assumed the presidency of The Citadel. General Harris served 34 years in the United States Army, during 11 of those years holding the rank of general. Several of the positions he held in his brilliant career included: Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and Operations, Eighth Army, during the war in Korea; Chief of Staff Army, Ft. Meade, Md.; Commanding General, 11th Airborne Division, Germany; Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations, Plans, and Training, Continental Army Command, Ft. Monroe, Va.; Commanding General of the Army Infantry Center and Commandant, Ft. Benning, Ga.; Commanding General, I Corps, in Korea; Commanding General, Seventh Army, in Germany; Vice Chief of Staff, U.S. Army, in Washington; and Commanding General, Continental Army Command, Ft. Monroe, Va. The plans for the continued growth and expansion of the Military College of South Carolina can be seen in Byrd Hall, and Duckett Hall, begun during General Harris' administration.

Major General James W. Duckett succeeded General Harris in 1970. A 1932 honor graduate, General Duckett joined The Citadel Chemistry Department faculty in 1934, after receiving his M.S. degree from the University of Georgia. Shortly after receiving his Ph.D. degree from the University of North Carolina in 1941, he entered active duty in the Chemical Corps of the United States Army. Awarded the Legion of Merit and the Army Commendation Medal for outstanding service, he left active duty in 1946 and returned to The Citadel where he became a professor of organic chemistry, a position he held until 1954. During the next 15 years he served as head of the Department of Admissions and as administrative dean, dean of the college, and vice president prior to assuming the presidency of the college. After several years of service to The Citadel as president General Duckett retired in 1974.

On August 1, 1974, after a brilliant military career, Lieutenant General George M. Seignious replaced General Duckett as president of The Citadel. After his graduation from The Citadel during World War II in 1942, he was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the infantry, and thereafter served with the 10th Armored Division at Camp Gordon, Ga., and in the European Theater of Operations, returning to the United States in 1946. After service with the Joint Brazil-United States Military Commission and Headquarters, Caribbean Command, he was assigned to Fort Bragg where he was ultimately made commanding officer of the 44th Tank Battalion. In 1952, he was assigned to the office of the Joint Chiefs of Staff as assistant executive secretary, where he served until 1955. After further service in Europe, he returned as military assistant and executive to the Secretary of the Army in 1957. He graduated from the National War College in 1961 and spent the following four years in Europe, where he served in various capacities. He was promoted to Brigadier General in 1965 and, after a short time with the office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense, he was sent to Korea to serve as an assistant division commander to assist in operations and control in the violations of the Demilitarized Zone by the Communists. In 1967 he returned to the United States, was promoted to the grade of Major General, and assigned to the Joint Staff of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. In 1968 he replaced General Andrew Goodpaster in his role at the Paris Peace Talks during the Vietnamese War. In 1971, he became Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense, International Security Affairs, and later Director of the Defense Security Assistance Agency. In 1972 he became the Director of the Joint Staff, the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

During his tenure as president, General Seignious displayed the highest degree of dedication to his Alma Mater, and it was not unusual to see him among the cadets, informing himself on conditions and moral within the Corps. In 1979, President Carter appointed him to head the Arms Control Disarmament Agency, and he was replaced as president by Major General Wallace Anderson.

As Acting President of The Citadel Major General Wallace E. Anderson, a man of considerable military, academic, and civic achievement, made significant contributions toward the continued growth and prestige of The Citadel. As Vice President for Academic Affairs, he maintained The Citadel at a high level of scholastic excellence; his dedicated work as Acting President was exemplary of The Citadel ideal.

The Citadel, though it occupies a new site and has been greatly expanded and modernized, is still basically the same unique institution which was founded in 1842. It still has the mission to turn out "citizen-soldier" leaders who can excel in civilian professions and enterprises as well as serve their country in time of war. The Citadel remains a changing yet steadfast bulwark of duty, self-discipline, and high ideals in a changing American society. The Citadel looks forward to continuing years of growth and progress under its new President, Vice Admiral James Bond Stockdale.

CUSTOMS AND TRADITIONS

The customs of the Corps are the outward manifestation of its inherent character. The strict observance of these customs has for its objective the perpetuation of the Corps' pride, spirit, and morale.

The Cap Device

The cap device changed several times between 1842 and 1910, but since the latter date, except from 1933 to 1937, it has remained the same as it appears on Citadel caps today.

Today the cap device consists of the palmetto tree which appears on the South Carolina state flag and two shields taken from the Seal of the State of South Carolina. The inscription "The Citadel" is located between the top of the shields and the lower branches of the palmetto. At the bottom of the cap device is the date 1842, the year The Citadel was founded.

In the shield on the right of the large palmetto are a small palmetto tree, two small shields, one on each side of the tree, and the date 1776. At the top of the exergue are the words "South Carolina" and at the bottom of the same, the words "Animis Opibusque Parati," meaning "Prepared in Mind and Resources."

The shield on the left side of the large palmetto has the figure of a woman walking on the seashore over swords and daggers. In her right hand she holds a laurel branch, and she is looking toward the sun just rising above the sea. The words, "Dum Spiro Spero," meaning, "While I Breathe I Hope," are inscribed at the summit of the shield and "Spes," meaning "Hope," is inscribed within the field below the figure.

The Citadel Class Ring

The Citadel ring signifies a host of accomplishments, for not only does it symbolize a partial history of the State of South Carolina and The Citadel, but also it relates the ideals for which the college was founded. Almost every feature of the ring is symbolic of a goal or an attainment of past members of the South Carolina Corps of Cadets.

Most outstanding and significant of all the features of the ring is the "Star of the West," which commemorates the shelling of a Union supply steamer by a detachment of Citadel cadets. This action taken by the cadets in January 1861 was the first hostile fire of the Civil War.

On the shank of the ring are the United States and South Carolina colors, which depict the unity and coordination between South Carolina and the federal government. To serve the dual purpose of representing the artillery, one of the two original branches of military instruction given during the early years of The Citadel, and as a connecting link between the old Citadel of Marion Square and the Greater Citadel of today, are the cannon balls on the bottom of this shank. In front of the barracks at Marion Square was a pile of Civil War cannon balls. When the college moved to its present location, they remained at the old Citadel. Adopted as a part of The Citadel ring, they bind the new college with the spirit and tradition of the old.

On the left shank of the ring a rifle, saber, wreath, and a 30-caliber bullet can be seen at a glance. Upon closer observation, an oak leaf is noted in the background of the muzzle of the rifle, and by the tip of the sword is a spray of laurel. By means of most of these symbols, some of the ideals and concepts upon which The Citadel was founded and has endured are presented artistically.

The rifle and the 30-caliber bullet symbolize the infantry, the other original department of military science at the college. Since duty and responsibility have their reward at The Citadel, that of being appointed a cadet officer in the first-class year, these ideals, too, are embodied in the ring by the sword, the symbol of the cadet officer. Although difficult to discern, the oak leaf is one of the most powerful motifs of the ring; it stands for the oak tree and its characteristic attributes of strength and endurance. Of equal importance in a world torn by perpetual military conflict is the concept of victory blessed by peace, represented by the laurel and the wreath respectively.

The oval crest of the ring is dominated by a reproduction of the palmetto tree. Primarily it symbolizes the state tree of South Carolina. Also, it represents the "Palmetto Regiment," a military body trained by Citadel cadets and sent from South Carolina to fight in the Mexican War. Third, it represents a fort on Sullivan's Island built from palmetto logs, which successfully resisted many British men-of-war during the Revolutionary War. The two oval shields at the base of the palmetto tree are miniature replicas of the state shield. (The shield inscription is accurate and readable with a low-power glass.)

An interesting tradition which has evolved in connection with the ring is the different manner in which it is worn by cadets as distinguished from alumni. Since cadets are eligible to wear rings upon becoming academic firstclassmen, they wear them with the class numerals facing up to the wearers. After graduation exercises, however, the rings are turned about.

The Citadel ring is a standard ring; it was standardized in 1940 by the Ring Committee with the approval of the Classes of 1940, 1941, and 1942. Standardization brings two distinct advantages. First, it makes The Citadel ring easy to recognize, since all graduating classes wear the same type of ring, and secondly, it denotes not a member of a certain class, but The Citadel man.

The Miniature Ring

Of great significance is The Citadel miniature ring. Like the class ring, it is received by the cadet at the beginning of his first-class year or at any later date if so desired. It is smaller than the class ring, but is identical in all other respects. Many cadets at the annual Ring Hop present this miniature to someone very special. While not an engagement ring, it signifies the spirit of "engaged-to-be-engaged."

The Regimental Colors

On April 14, 1939, the late Senator Burnet R. Maybank, then governor of South Carolina, attached to the pike of the regimental colors battle streamers signifying that the Corps of Cadets had participated as a unit in several engagements during the War Between the States. The streamers, one for each engagement, include: "Star of the West, January 9, 1961," "Wappoo Cut, November 1861," "James Island, June 1862," "Charleston and Vicinity, July to October 1863," "James Island, June 1864," "Tulifinny, December 1864," "James Island, December 1864 to February 1865," "Williamston, May 1, 1865," and a gray streamer bearing the white inscription, "Confederate States Army." These colors, accompanied by the national colors, are carried to parades and reviews by a color guard made up of two color sergeants and two color corporals.

The Uniform

The Citadel uniform is symbolic of an institution which for more than 100 years has maintained an enviable standing in the military and scholastic circles of the nation. The fourthclassman will immediately be taught that it is a privilege to wear the uniform, and he will be instructed by the training cadre in the proper wearing of it.

Significance of the Brass Buttons

Over a period of more than 100 years, a comradeship has ripened between the Washington Light Infantry and the Corps of Cadets of The Citadel, and, as a result, the brass buttons worn on Citadel hats, full dress uniform blouses, and overcoats are exact replicas of those worn on the W.L.I. dress uniform.

To appreciate this comradeship one must know the important part played by the W.L.I. in the history of The Citadel. The first significant event occurred in 1843, when members of the W.L.I., serving as the guard of the old Citadel, were relieved by the new guard composed of Citadel cadets. On April 20, 1844, the W.L.I. assisted in the burial services of The Citadel's first superintendent, Captain W. F. Graham. At the celebration of the W.L.I. February 22, 1957, the Corps was honored by being presented with a set of colors.

It is interesting to note that the W.L.I., upon invitation, participated in the 1875 celebration of the Battle of Bunker Hill, thus becoming the first Confederate unit to participate in a federal celebration. The following year the unit took part in the centennial celebration of American Independence at Philadelphia.

Members of the W.L.I. were instrumental in formulating the plans for the reopening of The Citadel after the U.S. military occupation, 1865-1882. On February 22, 1879, they dedicated their annual celebration of Washington's Birthday to The Citadel, and on each February 22nd since, cadet officers have been W.L.I. dinner guests.

More recently, members of the W.L.I. were present at both the laying of the cornerstone and the dedication of Summerall Chapel. They participated in The Citadel centennial anniversary in 1943, in which both the Corps and the members of the W.L.I. reenacted the historic 1843 changing of the guard. A marble tablet in Bond Hall commemorating a centure of affiliation was erected by the W.L.I.

"Throughout the century now closing, we have been closely identified with the Battalion of Citadel Cadets. In peace and in war they have been devoted friends, trusted allies. Only gracious memories are recalled for all the years that are past, and only joyous hopes spring up for the future which opens today. In the bonds of a renewing and continuing friendship, Esto Perpetuo."

Academic Buildings

BOND HALL, named for Colonel O. J. Bond, ninth president of The Citadel, is the main academic and administrative building. It was completed in its present form in 1939. The two wings of Bond Hall were finished in 1922 when the Greater Citadel was built, and since that time numerous additions have completed the building. This building contains most of the administrative offices of the college as well as the offices, laboratories, and classrooms of the Physics, Electrical Engineering, Business Administration, and Education Departments.

CAPERS HALL is named in honor of Brigadier General Ellison Capers, CSA, Citadel 1857, and first president of Sewanee University, and also for Major F. W. Capers, superintendent of The Citadel, 1852-1859. It houses classrooms, offices and other facilities for the English, History, Mathematics, Modern Languages, and Political Science Departments.

THOMPSON HALL, named for Hugh S. Thompson, Citadel 1865, twice governor of South Carolina, assistant secretary of the U.S. Treasury, and the commissioner of the U.S. Civil Service, houses the offices and classrooms of the Psychology Department and also contains engineering drawing rooms, surveying classrooms, rehearsal rooms for the Band and Bagpipers, and billeting accommodations for visiting athletic teams.

LETELLIER HALL was constructed in 1937. In this building are located all the offices, classrooms, and laboratories of the Civil Engineering Department. The latest equipment and one of the largest hydraulic testing machines in the South have been installed in the laboratories. LeTellier Hall also has an excellent engineering library for supplementary study.

JENKINS HALL, situated next to Thompson Hall, is named for Brigadier General Micah Jenkins, CSA, Citadel 1854, who founded King's Mountain Military School. Jenkins Hall houses the Departments of Aerospace Studies, Military Science, and Naval Science, the offices for Air Force, Army, Marine and Navy ROTC personnel, and arms and supply storage.

BYRD HALL, the chemistry-geology building, is named for Colonel R. M. Byrd, Citadel 1923, who served as head of the Chemistry Department from 1945 to 1956 and as academic dean from 1956 to 1966. It houses classrooms, offices, laboratories, service areas for professors, and a library. It also contains a 175-seat auditorium named in honor of Colonel Samuel A. Wideman, Citadel 1929, who was head of the Chemistry Department from 1956 to 1968.

DUCKETT HALL, named for Major General James W. Duckett, Citadel 1932, president of The Citadel from 1970-1974, provides modern classrooms, laboratories, and offices for the Biology Department. The building is three stories high, centrally air conditioned, with a greenhouse and an animal house on the roof. Architecturally, the building follows the same Spanish-Moorish style as do most of the other buildings on campus.

THE DANIEL LIBRARY, constructed in 1960, is named in honor of the late Charles E. Daniel, Citadel 1918, and R. Hugh Daniel, Citadel 1929, distinguished Citadel men who have been lifelong benefactors of the college. The main library collection contains more than 185,000 books, bound periodicals, and government documents and pamphlets. Facilities include a 10,000 volume reference collection, 86,783 microfilm reels, microfilm readers, Xerox machines, and a room for listening to music from the record collection. This three-story structure also houses the Archives and Museum. The Archives include extensive collections from General Mark W. Clark, General Hugh P. Harris, General W. C. Westmoreland, and many other noted personalities.

DEAS HALL, the brand-new physical education building, was completed in the summer of 1976. The two-story structure is approximately 88,000 square feet and houses an 8-line, 25-meter swimming pool, six handball courts, three classrooms, a development laboratory, a physiology laboratory, a multi-purpose room, offices, showers and a locker for each member of the Corps. Pictures of this excellent facility are on pages 50. and 176.

COWARD HALL, situated directly behind Law Barracks, consists of a main dining hall and two large wings. A professional catering service provides food so the entire Corps can be fed at one time. It was redecorated during the summer of 1976.

THE MARY BENNETT MURRAY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL, erected with funds donated by a friend of The Citadel, was presented to the college in 1923. It contains up-to-date hospital facilities, including spacious wards and private rooms for the isolation of cadets with contagious diseases. The Citadel maintains a full-time surgeon, who is assisted by a staff of four registered nurses, one of whom is on duty at all times.

McALISTER FIELD HOUSE, constructed in 1939, contains the offices of the athletic director and his staff. Its three basketball courts provide facilities for The Citadel's excellent basketball program. This spacious structure has been the scene of many formal cadet hops. Having a seating capacity of about 5,000, the field house is one of the largest and finest in the nation.

Located directly behind this building is the Patio. With its large outdoor fireplace and dance area, it lends itself to many other cadet activities as well. Its proximity to the pool makes swimming parties enjoyable in the warm months of the year. Accommodating 100 persons, the Patio may be used for company, organization, and club parties.

THE INDOOR RIFLE RANGE, located behind McAlister Field House, has 11 firing points, rifle racks, observing posts, and a scoring room.

JOHNSON HAGOOD STADIUM is a steel and brick structure with one of the best lighting systems in the South. Finished during the 1948-1949 academic year, it has a seating capacity of 22,000. The stadium was purchased from the City of Charleston in 1963. All home games are played in this stadium, in which the Corps of Cadets has a special seating section near the 50-yard line.

COLLEGE PARK was leased from the City of Charleston in 1966 and offers The Citadel athletic program excellent baseball facilities, with seating up to 4,000. College Park is also used during the fall for The Citadel soccer team and is available for intramural and physical education activities.

ALUMNI HALL was built in 1923. In the lower part of the building are the athletic equipment and dressing rooms. The upper floor, which is used for the intramural program, contains a gymnasium.

MARK CLARK HALL, a three-story building with 55,000 square feet of floor space, houses a canteen, reception room, barbershop, lounge, and game room, TV room, and post office. It also features six bowling alleys, equipped with automatic pin setters, a billiard room, and a large auditorium, equipped to project motion pictures. The top floor of the building has a Catholic Chapel, individual work rooms for each of the student publications, an honor court, and quarters for important and distinguished guests of The Citadel.

Barracks

PADGETT-THOMAS BARRACKS (Number 2) is the oldest barracks on the campus, having been completed in 1922. It was named for Colonel J. G. Padgett, a member of the Board of Visitors and a graduate of 1892, and for Colonel John Peyre Thomas, the wartime superintendent of The Arsenal and superintendent of The Citadel from 1882-1885. The building, which serves as a model for the barracks, is designed so that the center is a quadrangle onto which each room opens, and in each of the four corners is a spiral stairway. Adjacent to the east sally port is the guard room. The dominant feature of the barracks is the tower which rises above the fourth story and overlooks the parade ground to the east. In 1977, refurbishing of the barracks was completed with each room being completely modernized.

MURRAY BARRACKS (Number 1) was built in 1926 through the generous gift of almost half its cost by the late Andrew B. Murray. About 475 cadets can be accommodated in it. Though smaller than Padgett-Thomas Barracks, the arrangement of rooms, corner stairways, and guard room is similar. This was the first of the barracks to be refurbished in a program begun in 1974. Each room contains new drip ceilings with fluorescent lighting, panelled walls, and tiled floors on the first two divisions, with the third and fourth floors being carpeted.

LAW BARRACKS (Number 3), named for Major General Evander M. Law, CSA, Citadel 1865, was completed in 1939. This building can accommodate about 450 cadets and was refurbished in 1977.

STEVENS BARRACKS (Number 4) is the same size and design as Law Barracks. Because the rapidly expanding enrollment of The Citadel brought about the necessity for additional quarters, funds were obtained in 1942 for its construction. This barracks was named for Major P. E. Stevens, Citadel 1849, superintendent of The Citadel from 1859 to 1861. Stevens Barracks was refurbished in 1977 and completion of the modernization program of all four barracks was begun in 1974.

Cadet Service Buildings

THE PRINT SHOP, located behind Padgett-Thomas Barracks, does all the printing for the college and its organizations. The Brigadier, Shako, Guidon, and school catalogue are printed here as well as all other literature concerning the college. The Print Shop is equipped with several presses and a staff which is qualified to carry out the many printing jobs assigned to it.

THE TAILOR SHOP, also located behind Padgett-Thomas Barracks, offers all the services normally found in a tailor shop. Freshmen are fitted individually for each item of uniform issued them. In addition, alterations and repairs of upperclassmen's uniforms are performed here. The hours of operation are normally between 0830 and 1700 hours.

THE CADET STORE, the third in a complex of buildings located behind Padgett-Thomas Barracks, contains articles of clothing and uniforms that cadets will need throughout their four years at The Citadel. In another part of this store is located the Book Store, which stocks the textbooks used in the classrooms at the college. The hours of operation are normally between 0830 and 1700 hours.

THE LAUNDRY, located to the west of Murray Barracks, maintains a high degree of efficiency through the use of modern equipment. A three-day laundry service is available to cadets.

Other Buildings

SUMMERALL CHAPEL was erected during 1936-1937. Cruciform in plan, the Chapel is a shrine of religion, of patriotism, and of remembrance. Its appointments are such that any priest, minister, or rabbi can hold services there and feel perfectly at home; and, since it is entirely nonsectarian, Summerall Chapel can belong to no particular denomination.

After the completion of the Chapel, each of the classes (up through the Class of 1944) had the opportunity to purchase a window as a lasting memorial to its members. The class windows show the life of Christ in superb stained glass with each window depicting some important event in His life.

The great chancel window, located directly behind the altar, was dedicated in 1942 as a memorial to all Citadel men who have given their lives in their country's cause. It portrays exemplars and symbols of courage, sacrifice, religion, truth, duty, loyalty, patriotism, faith, charity, prayer, adoration, praise, and immortality.

The facade and transept windows are made up of a number of units or "medallions," provided by families or friends of the men whom they commemorate. Only those who have been Citadel cadets are so honored. The design of each of these medallions represents symbolically the person whom it commemorates. In keeping with the democratic spirit of the institution, all medallions are identical in size and in fineness of design.

The inscription across the front of Summerall Chapel summarizes the spiritual atmosphere at The Citadel reading "Remember Now Thy Creator in the Days of Thy Youth."

THE THOMAS DRY HOWIE MEMORIAL CARILLON AND TOWER were donated to The Citadel by two alumni, Charles E. Daniel, Citadel 1918, and R. Hugh Daniel, Citadel 1929, in tribute to their friend, Major Thomas Dry Howie, the famed "Major of St. Lo," who was killed in action during World War II.

The Citadel carillon is one of the largest Dutch bell installations in the Western Hemisphere. It was cast in the famous Royal Bergen Bellfoundries at Heiligerlee, the Netherlands. The 59 bells, totaling 30,300 pounds in weight, vary in size from 25 pounds to the 4,400 pounds of the great Bourdon, as the lowest brass bell is called.

A carillon is a set of bronze bells attuned to intervals of the chromatic scale with a possible range of seven octaves. The bells are hung in a stationary position and are played from a concert keyboard of two manuals. The carillon is equipped with a Westminister chime to strike every quarter-hour.

The Bell Tower is 90 feet high, topping the Chapel by 35 feet.

THE COLONEL ROBERT McCORMICK BEACH CLUB is open the year round for the use of Citadel cadets, faculty, and staff. Located on the ocean front of the Isle of Palms, the Beach Club offers ample space for dances, parties, cookouts, and games. Facilities include a modern kitchen, a dance floor, a patio, several oyster pits, dressing rooms shuffleboard and badminton courts, music, and a wide expanse of beach.

FACULTY OFFICERS' QUARTERS are available on campus for members of the faculty who desire them. They include 10 quadruplex homes, the faculty apartment building with its 16 apartments, five duplex apartments, and six housing units for junior faculty officers.

THE CITADEL ALUMNI HOUSE is located off campus, adjacent to the Hagood Ave. gate. It is open to members of the faculty and staff as well as Citadel alumni. Facilities for coffee breaks and other leisure pastimes are present in the building. A large reception room is also available for parties and wedding receptions.

LESESNE GATE, the main access to The Citadel campus, is named for Thomas Petigru Lesesne, Citadel 1901. Mr. Lesesne was instrumental in the move of the Military College of South Carolina from its original site on Marion Square to the banks of the Ashley River. The familiar limestone and wrought iron gate has become the chief point of arrival and departure from the campus for students, faculty, and visitors alike. At this main entrance to the campus is located a gate house information center for visitors, which also contains the office of The Citadel provost marshal.

THE YACHT CLUB fleet consists of a 54-foot cabin cruiser, small sailboats, and outboard motorboats, all available to students. Facilities consist of a club house, dockage, marine railway, sail loft, work area for maintenance repair of small boats, and boat storage for a small fee.

CAMPUS MONUMENTS

THE SERAPH MONUMENT is a memorial consisting of relics from the H.M.S. Seraph, including the periscope and a forward torpedo loading hatch. Both the U.S. and British flags fly from the structure to symbolize that this English submarine was placed under the command of an American Naval officer for a special mission during World War II. The H.M.S. Seraph also secretly landed General Mark Clark in North Africa for an intelligence mission. This monument is dedicated to the Seraph and the Anglo-American cooperation.

On the parade ground, there are monuments dedicated to each of the four services. They are a Marine Landing craft (LVT-H-6), an Army Sherman Tank (M4A3) and an Army missile (Redstone), an Air Force Jet (RF-84C), and a Navy anchor from the U.S.S. Coral Sea.

A U.S.C.G. bell serves as a monument to Citadel Men who have lost their lives upon the sea.

Academic Departments

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS

Department of Aerospace Studies

COLONEL FLOYD W. BROWN, JR., USAF

B.S. in Commerce, The Citadel; M.S., Auburn University

Professor of Aerospace Studies

The mission of The Citadel Air Force ROTC Detachment is to instruct, and motivate cadets enrolled in its programs to develop the knowledge, character, and qualities of leadership needed by an officer in the Air Force. Modern weapon systems and technology, in combination with a constantly changing world situation, require trained, dedicated, professionals who accept responsibility readily, think critically and creatively, and communicate effectively.

Citadel AFROTC courses feature a wide variety of instruction and training. During the freshman and sophomore years, we introduce students to the Air Force's relationship with current national defense as well as its historic role in 20th Century world affairs. During the junior and senior years, students receive an introductory course in modern leadership and management techniques in the military, and a course in American Defense Policy. These courses explore the concept of professional responsibility and service to country. Students study techniques of leadership, the military justice system, management problem solving, and the relationship of the military officer to national defense policy. Additionally, students receive practical experience in speaking and writing.

Beginning in the sophomore year, cadets may apply for commissioning contracts that are in effect during their junior and senior years. While on contract, cadets receive $100 a month, tax free, during the academic year. Additionally, they receive a uniform allowance to help defray the cost of Citadel uniforms. Before the beginning of their junior academic year, contract cadets attend a four-week summer field training session. During this period, they receive room, board, and a salary.

AFROTC also offers a variety of scholarship programs to outstanding students majoring in all academic majors offered at The Citadel, or pursuing a medical career. These scholarships pay full tuition, laboratory and incidental fees, and full reimbursement for required textbooks. In addition, scholarship students receive $100 a month during the academic year, a uniform allowance, and attend summer field training.

Upon successful completion of requirements for a Bachelors Degree and Air Force commissioning, cadets receive reserve commissions as second lieutenants in the United States Air Force. Newly commissioned officers who do not go through a flying training program serve on active duty for a minimum of four years. Officers who become fliers serve for longer periods. All can look forward to challenging and rewarding positions in a profession where the future is now.

Department of Biology

LT. COL. ROBERT E. BALDWIN

B.S., The Citadel; M.S., Ph.D., University of South Carolina

Professor and Head, Department of Biology

The ever-increasing importance of biological science and the attractive career opportunities which require a biological science background caused The Citadel to organize a Department of Biology and to offer a B.S. Biology course of study. The program in premedicine, predentistry, and pre-veterinary medicine may be completed in three years, but most students elect to continue until graduation. Other opportunities include the allied medical sciences, secondary school science teaching, social work, wildlife biology, or conservation.

A core curriculum in biology was devised and became effective in September 1970. It releases students from the rigid course requirements of the old system. Students now have more opportunity to pursue areas of special interest and competence. Far greater reliance will be placed on personal student-advisor planning to insure sufficient balance in individual student programs. Since September 1968, the department has offered a biology major for a Master of Arts in Teaching.

Anticipating the educational need of The Citadel and our geographical area, the Biology Department introduced a course in marine biology in the fall of 1970.

In the fall of 1973, The Citadel began to participate in a program leading to an M.S. degree in Marine Biology instituted by the Charleston Consortium of Colleges.

During Freshman Week, an orientation hour is held in Duckett Hall so the students can informally meet our well qualified faculty and acquaint themselves with the biology curriculum.

Department of Business Administration

COLONEL ROBERT S. ADDEN

B.S. in Commerce, The Citadel; M.B.A., University of Pennsylvania; Ph.D., University of North Carolina

*Professor and Head
Department of Business Administration*

The Department of Business Administration was organized in 1924. In the early years the purpose of the department was to train specialists in the fields of marketing and accounting. This, however, was changed in 1931 after a study was made of the needs of Citadel cadets and the facilities the college had for training. In view of the emphasis the college places on leadership training, it was decided to plan a curriculum in business administration which would develop the students for positions of leadership in business. Although there have been changes in the curriculum to reflect changes in business theories and practices, the basic purposes of the department have remained the same. These purposes are to prepare the student to take his place in business in which he can forego many of the years of experience which would be required of an apprentice, to enter in full standing the graduate schools of business administration, to pursue further professional business studies, and to take his place in economic society as does a professional man in other fields of endeavor with sufficient knowledge to make sound decisions on economic problems.

To accomplish these purposes, the student is required to take courses in all major fields of business, including accounting, finance, marketing, personnel administration, and production management, as well as courses in economic theory. The courses in each field are arranged in sequences with the emphasis on theoretical and elementary background material in the sophomore year. In his junior year the student learns facts, practices, and laws of business operations. In the senior year, all courses are oriented toward executive decision-making.

Executive management is rapidly becoming a profession. Experience shows that our students have done well in this profession. Leadership training and executive training coupled together give the student the tools for success in business.

Department of Chemistry

COLONEL JOSEPH R. WILKINSON

B.S., The Citadel; M.S., University of Georgia;
Ph.D., Florida State University

Professor and Head, Department of Chemistry

The Department of Chemistry includes the divisions of chemistry and geology, and offers two major programs of study:

1. B.S. Chemistry, recognized by the American Chemical Society, is designed for those who plan a career in chemistry. The program prepares men for acceptance at the leading graduate schools and for immediate work as a professional chemist in industrial chemistry.

2. B.A. Chemistry is a much less strenuous program with opportunity for a wide choice of electives which will provide students with preparation leading to admission to medical and dental schools; leading to careers in secondary school science teaching, chemical and pharmaceutical sales, and other positions which require a background in chemistry.

The department presents to freshmen two different courses in their first year. Chemistry 101 and Chemistry 102 (General Chemistry) and their accompanying laboratories, Chemistry 111 and Chemistry 112 (General Chemistry Laboratory), are required of students majoring in the physical sciences, biology, mathematics, or engineering. Chemistry 103 and Chemistry 104 (Introduction to Chemistry), and their accompanying laboratories, Chemistry 113 and Chemistry 114 (Introduction to Chemistry Laboratory), are designed as a terminal course in chemistry for students who plan to major in the arts, education, business administration, political science, or physical education.

The terminal courses consisting of Chemistry 103 and Chemistry 104 and their laboratories Chemistry 113 and Chemistry 114 are considerably less demanding on the student than the course for physical science, biology, engineering, and mathematics majors and are not acceptable substitutes for Chemistry 101, Chemistry 102, Chemistry 111, and Chemistry 112.

At the present time, the demand for chemists far exceeds the supply, and excellent career opportunities are available throughout the country. Graduate training in the universities offers great opportunities for virtually cost-free training to the qualified student who graduates from the programs offered by the department. Fellowships, assistantships, and similar aids are more numerous than qualified applicants for them.

The Citadel enjoys a good reputation both for the number of its students accepted by the medical and dental colleges and for the quality of work done by them in these institutions. Our graduates in chemistry are sought after by industry and by graduate institutions.

The Chemistry Department occupies Byrd Hall, completed in the fall of 1968. This building is completely air-conditioned and equipped with the most modern facilities.

Department of Civil Engineering

COLONEL LORING K. HIMELRIGHT

B.S. in C.E., Duke University; M.S. in C.E., Harvard University; P.E. (South Carolina

Professor and Head, Department of Civil Engineering

The civil engineering curriculum is accredited by the Engineers' Council for Professional Development. The freshman may be assured that the Civil Engineering Department in staff, equipment, and recognition by employers is prepared to offer him the opportunity to lay the foundation for a rewarding career in this field. This is attested by the records of graduates in the Corps of Engineers of the Army, in graduate schools, and with employers of engineers.

Another factor which should be considered is an acute shortage of engineers and scientists that approaches a national emergency in its seriousness. This condition relieves students of any fear that their services may not be in demand upon highly favorable terms when they graduate; however, those unsuited for the field of engineering should not attempt the course. The need is not for more poor, halfhearted engineers who are looking for mere material rewards, but for men who love the work and pursue it with skill and enthusiasm. To such men we must look to carry on the vast and complex mechanism of our civilization and to meet the challenge of our way of life.

The chances are that entering freshmen will invest four of the best years of their lives and a considerable sum of money with The Citadel. They are urged not to cheat themselves by getting less than a maximum out of the investment.

During Freshman Week an orientation program is held in LeTellier Hall at which time the student meets the civil engineering professors, becomes acquainted with the curriculum he will pursue, and learns the types of professional work done by a civil engineer. This program is continued with talks and films on civil engineering during his freshman year. Also, freshmen are encouraged to attend meetings of the student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers and are invited to seminars on civil engineering subjects.

Department of Education

LT. COL. HENDRICK C. de BRUIN

B.A., Montclair State College; M.Ed. and Ph.D., University of Arizona

Professor and Head, Department of Education

The Department of Education is deeply involved in both the traditions and the new frontiers of The Citadel. To support the concept of "The Citadel man," the department courses make available to all cadets the broadening experience of the arts, the deepening awareness of man's perennial conflicts, and the challenging discovery of the laws of human behavior. But the major thrust of the Department of Education is to provide the cadet majoring in education with a curriculum which allows him to gain a mastery of a special field; to discover himself in relation to society, to history, and to his own experience; to acquaint him with the many techniques used in the quest for knowledge; to develop an awareness of education theory and practice; and to test out his effectiveness in the crucible of actual performance.

Cadets who complete this program will have developed both personal and professional competencies. Upon graduation, those who so desire will be well equipped to assume the role of teacher; those who choose to move into a different profession (medicine, law, business, or some other area) will find that they have enriched their situation through the depth and breadth of the education major. In addition, they will have had the opportunity to apply their learning in today's challenging society. Even this brief encounter with "the world" which the teaching internship provides brings a new maturity and a new self-awareness to The Citadel cadet which is frequently a capstone of his undergraduate studies. The teacher education program for secondary teachers at the undergraduate and graduate levels is accredited by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education. This qualifies our graduates for certification nationwide.

The Department of Education also makes available a major in psychology. This program, which shares much of the breadth and depth of the education major, prepares the interested cadet for graduate study in psychology or a related area. The curriculum is broad and rigorous, encompassing laboratory, clinical, and statistical elements designed to help the cadet relate himself to the professional field of psychology.

Department of Electrical Engineering

COLONEL OREN L. HERRING, JR.

B.S. in E.E., The Citadel; M.S. in E.E., University of Michigan; P.E. (South Carolina)

Professor and Head, Department of Electrical Engineering

The Department of Electrical Engineering has now graduated more than 700 men who are practicing their profession in industrial work or in the armed forces. Our graduates find ready employment at good salaries, and their employers return each year to hire more men.

The electrical engineering program is accredited by the Engineers' Council for Professional Development.

The student members of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers offer regular programs at which technical motion pictures are shown, and lectures and demonstrations in several phases of the profession are given by members of the group and by visiting engineers. Official recognition was granted the student activities by the establishment of a Student

Branch of the American Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers at The Citadel. Inspection tours of the electrical industries in the neighborhood are made throughout the year to familiarize students with engineers of authority and high accomplishment.

A student who enters this field assures himself of a vocation in which the rewards are rich and satisfying.

Department of English

COLONEL ARTHUR H. BLAIR, USA, RET.

B.S., U.S. Military Academy; M.S., California Institute of Technology; M.A., University of Pa.; Ph.D., University of N.C.

Professor and Head, Department of English

The English major, like most liberal arts courses of study, offers the student a number of electives both within the department and in other departments appropriate to the career planned by the student. Thus the student majoring in English is assured a broad cultural background as well as an opportunity to take those specialized courses preparatory to the career he plans to pursue or to the specialized fields of graduate study he plans to enter. These careers and fields of graduate study include, among others, business, journalism, teaching, law, and theology.

The latest time at which a student may advantageously choose English as his undergraduate major is at the beginning of his sophomore year. After the completion of the sophomore year, a change from some other major to the English major is possible but not recommended in most instances.

Department of History

CAPTAIN JOHN C. COUSSONS, USNR

B.A., Louisiana College; M.A., Ph.D., Louisiana State University

Professor and Head, Department of History

The History Department offers to those cadets majoring in that subject a broad, liberal training, worthwhile as a background for almost any pursuit and particularly valuable to students planning careers in the armed services, the ministry, business, law, and teaching. Courses in history also constitute desirable electives for majors in other departments, such as political science, English, modern languages, and the sciences.

The department provides a well-balanced program in both European and American history, emphasizing the fact that a comprehensive study of the past will serve as a means to a better understanding of the present. Its courses attempt to give the student a knowledge of those forces which have molded contemporary civilization and the historical background of current political, economic, and social problems.

Department of Mathematics

LT. COL. ISAAC S. METTS, JR.

B.S., The Citadel; M.A., Vanderbilt University;
Ph.D., Vanderbilt University

*Associate Professor and Head,
Department of Mathematics*

Throughout history, mathematics has been a source of delight and creation, a challenging pursuit for countless amateur and professional mathematicians. The mathematical achievements of the 19th and 20th centuries are directly responsible for much of man's rapid progress in recent decades in the understanding and control of nature, and in perceiving the abilities and limitations of the human mind. The full development of the sciences could not have been achieved without the prior, or concurrent, development of the necessary mathematics.

The Citadel realizes that a knowledge of mathematics and the ability to use it are being demanded to an increasing extent in virtually all areas of human activity. Mathematics is stressed as an important link to a more progressive technology, and The Citadel mathematics major is the product of a skillful blending of technology and a broad variety of electives in related courses of study.

Mathematics is required of all freshmen at The Citadel. Students majoring in business administration, education, English, history, modern languages, physical education, political science, and premedicine are required to take 6 hours of mathematics during the freshmen year. Students desiring a B.S. degree in Chemistry, Engineering, Mathematics, or Physics must take at least two years of mathematics beginning with a course in analytic geometry and calculus.

The department offers courses of study leading to both the B.S. and B.A. in Mathematics. The B.S. graduate is well prepared to continue with graduate work in mathematics as well as being prepared for careers open to him in a great variety of fields of business and sciences.

The B.A. graduate has a strong mathematical background coupled with extensive training in an allied field. This would enable him to do graduate work in an allied field such as education, biology, business administration, computer science, or political science or to pursue a career which utilizes mathematics in such an allied field.

In both the B.S. and B.A. courses of study the cadet majoring in mathematics has a sufficiently large number of electives to allow the development of special interests. This breadth of training allows a greater variety of careers and areas for continued study after graduation.

The Department of Mathematics, in cooperation with the Computer Center, offers a variety of computer science courses designed to meet the needs of those students who will utilize the computer in their chosen career as well as those students who are preparing for a career in the field of computers.

Department of Military Science

COLONEL JOHN K. GIBLER, USA

B.A., The Citadel;
M.A., Shippensburg State University

Professor of Military Science

The mission of the Military Science Department is to provide instruction to insure the student is prepared to meet the leadership and management challenges of the future as a Second Lieutenant in the Army. Successful completion can lead either to a Regular or Reserve commission in the United States Army, or to duty with the Army Reserve or National Guard.

The four-year program is divided into two phases—a two-year Basic Course and a two-year Advanced Course. Basic Course students receive instruction in Management, Leadership, Marksmanship, Land Navigation, Military History and Individual and Squad Tactics. Cadets who desire and meet the requirements are enrolled in the Advanced Course. This portion of the curriculum places emphasis on the development of leadership, decision-making abilities, and communications skills through study in Management, Contemporary Problems of Military Law, Platoon and Team Tactics, and continued Military History.

For graduation at The Citadel all cadets are required to take four years of ROTC training. However, not all cadets earn the privilege of receiving a commission in the Armed Forces. To be eligible for a commission, the cadet must successfully complete the Basic ROTC Course and be offered and accept a contract during the Advanced ROTC Course. The contract is an agreement with the government to accept a commission if it is offered and to serve in the Active Army, Army Reserve or National Guard. Additionally, all contract cadets attend Advanced Camp, normally between the second and first class years. To assist students to overcome the financial burden inherent with higher education, the United States Army credits the student account of all Basic Course students with a $156 uniform allowance each year. Those students on contract during the Advanced Course receive a $100 a month subsistence allowance and a $253 a year uniform allowance.

Army ROTC sponsors four, three, two, and one-year nationally competitive scholarships for outstanding students who are interested in a career as an Army officer. Each scholarship provides free tuition, textbooks, laboratory fees; in addition, the cadet receives a monthly subsistence allowance for the period of the scholarship is in effect.

Cadets enrolled in the Army ROTC Program at The Citadel are eligible to receive over thirty awards presented annually by The Citadel, the Department of the Army, and many national organizations, individuals, and private corporations. The awards are specifically designated to honor both firstclassmen and underclassmen.

Those senior cadets with ROTC contracts who demonstrate outstanding attributes of leadership, character, and academic excellence may be designated as Distinguished Military Students (DMS) and are eligible to apply for commissions in the Regular Army. Citadel cadets have always received a large number of DMS Awards because of the superior leadership training opportunity provided by the South Carolina Corps of Cadets.

Department of Modern Languages

COLONEL HENRY D. G. SMITH

A.B. Johns Hopkins University;
M.A., Ph.D., Harvard University

Professor and Head, Department of Modern Languages

The Department of Modern Languages, in teaching French, German, Russian, and Spanish, seeks to prepare the student for the understanding of significant parts of the rest of the world. The position which the United States occupies in the Western World makes it incumbent upon future leaders of the armed forces, of industry, and of the arts and sciences to be proficient in at least one important language besides English.

This need has been expressed specifically by many Presidents of the United States, the latest being Mr. Carter; it has resulted in increased emphasis on linguistic capabilities in the careers of both military and foreign service officers. The Citadel's Department of Modern Languages, by means of the latest teaching methods and a modern language laboratory, provides an opportunity for Citadel students to acquire this important skill.

In addition to the modern languages mentioned above, the department offers courses in Greek, Latin, and Portuguese when sufficient demand exists. Since Greek is offered at very few secondary schools in the United States, an opportunity to study Greek is of particular value to students intending to pursue a career in theology.

No matter which language a student may study while in college, whether it will have a direct bearing upon his chosen professional career or not, he will—upon successful completion of such studies—have acquired a better balanced knowledge of the world and a greater appreciation of other nations, and he will thus have become a better educated man.

Department of Naval Science

COLONEL A. L. STEWART, JR., USMC

B.A., University of Texas

Professor of Naval Science

The Naval Science Department conducts academic courses and professional officer training under sponsorship of the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps (NROTC) Program. This program is designed to educate and train qualified cadets who wish to serve their country as commissioned officers in the U.S. Navy or U.S. Marine Corps.

Two programs are offered at The Citadel. The NROTC Scholarship Program provides considerable financial assistance to those who earn such a scholarship as well as an opportunity to serve as a Regular (career-oriented) officer in the Navy or Marine Corps. The NROTC College Program offers limited financial assistance and is for young men who wish to serve their country for a specified period as Reserve officers in the Navy or Marine Corps. Each program offers the opportunity for summer training cruises aboard ships of the U.S. Navy and at U.S. Navy or Marine Corps installations ashore.

Both Navy and Marine Corps students study Naval Science courses and may pursue the academic curriculum of their choice. Because of the highly technical environment of today's modern Navy, however, students pursuing a Navy commission are strongly encouraged to major in mathematics, chemistry, physics or engineering. Students who major in one of these fields greatly enhance their opportunities for appointment to NROTC Scholarship status. During their four years in the NROTC Program, students will receive indoctrination in the background and meaning of our Naval traditions, naval engineering, and the newest naval gun, missile, and under-water weapons systems. Both Navy and Marine students study the principles, theories, and practice of professional military leadership. Navy students will achieve proficiency in coastal as well as celestial navigation while Marine students will gain an understanding of amphibious and land combat operations. NROTC training, coupled with an academic degree provides the student with the requisite skills and knowledge necessary to assume the duties and responsibilities of a professional Naval officer.

Upon graduation, cadets who have demonstrated academic and military excellence and have met all other requirements of the NROTC program are commissioned as either Navy Ensigns or Marine Corps Second Lieutenants. Navy assignments vary from submarines and surface ships to aviation and shore duty. Marine officers serve throughout the world, ashore and afloat, as aviators and ground officers.

Department of Physical Education

LT. COL. MELVIN H. EZELL, JR.

B.S., East Carolina College;

M.S., Ed.D., University of Tennessee

Professor and Head, Department of Physical Education

The Department of Physical Education has the responsibility of conducting the required physical education program, intramural athletic program, sports club program, and undergraduate and graduate professional preparation programs.

The purpose of the required physical education program is to expose each cadet to basic adult physical fitness concepts and lifetime sports skills which will enable him to make an intelligent decision regarding these activities now and throughout his adult life.

The intramural athletic program is considered to be an integral part of a cadet's life and is, therefore, required of all who are not involved in either the intercollegiate athletics or the sports club program. The program consists of 23 individual and team sports with separate levels of inter-company competition for freshmen and upperclassmen.

The sports club program is designed to provide the cadet with co-curricular instruction and limited extramural competition. The program is currently composed of bowling, crew, fencing, gymnastics, lacrosse, martial arts, pistol, rod and gun, surfing, rugby, and sailing clubs and is governed by a council consisting of faculty members and cadets.

The undergraduate professional preparation program consists of a basic liberal arts curriculum supplemented by advanced courses in the biological sciences which lead to theory courses in kinesiology (movement science), exercise physiology, measurement and evaluation, and motor learning. The physical education major is also exposed to courses in motor skill acquisition, teaching methodology, and several field experiences which culminate in directed teaching.

Department of Physics

COLONEL ROGER S. BENDER

B.S., Yale University; Ph.D., Harvard University

Professor and Head, Department of Physics

The Physics Department offers introductory courses in physics and astronomy as well as advanced undergraduate physics courses. The three introductory physics courses have been tailored to the needs of the students they are intended to serve. The liberal arts major or the future teacher or business executive should take Physics for Liberal Arts Majors, a more qualitative than quantitative study. For potential doctors, dentists, or biologists, Physics for Biology and Premedicine presents physics as it relates to the biological and health sciences. Physics for Engineers and Physical Scientists is designed for physics, engineering, chemistry, and mathematics major.

Each year The Citadel has been graduating approximately five seniors with bachelor of science degrees in physics. These students have tended to be in the top of their class academically. The department offers a complete but flexible program for these students. Most of our majors either go on to graduate school to earn an advanced degree in physics or work immediately in industrial, testing, or government institutions. Some of our majors, however, do not intend to make their livelihood directly in physics. They wish to go on to law or medical school or business school for an M.B.A. degree and desire the strong scientific and technological background that will give them an advantage over their contemporaries. While the student can switch from one category to another, the standards and academic work expected are more extensive for the professional physics student.

The physics major is offered a complete undergraduate physics curriculum. Also, since the number of majors is small each student has a chance to do research of a theoretical or experimental nature of his own design or in conjunction with faculty research.

During Freshman Week, an orientation hour is held in Bond Hall. Interested students can meet the faculty and learn about their research.

Department of Political Science

COLONEL SALVATORE A. ARCILESI

B.A., The Citadel; Ph.D., University of Virginia

Professor and Head, Department of Political Science

The political science curriculum is designed to give students a broad liberal education by bringing them in contact with the political, social, and economic developments of the modern world. Those who complete the required course of study in the department along with the wide range of electives in other fields are well qualified to compete for entrance into the foreign service and the numerous administrative positions open to college graduates in the business world and in government service either civilian or military.

Approximately 30 percent of the graduates each year enter professional schools to study either political science, foreign affairs, or law. Usually, at least half of them, in recognition of superior scholastic ability, receive financial assistance in the form of fellowships from the best universities in the country.

Students desiring to prepare themselves for careers in the above-mentioned fields must indicate such a desire at the beginning of the junior year. They will follow a special program by selecting their minor electives from designated courses in history, psychology, sociology, and modern languages.

Counseling Services for Pre-Law and Pre-Medical Students

The Citadel provides counseling and guidance to all students who have an interest in going on to law or medical school after graduation. Anyone interested in a law career should seek advice early in his college experience from the Chairman of the Pre-Law Committee, Major Paul R. Benson, Jr. (Capers Hall 406), and other members of the Committee who are in the Political Science, History, English, Business Administration, and Education Departments. Students interested in medicine and related fields should seek early advice from the Chairman of the Pre-Medical Committee, Lieutenant Colonel Clinton A. Medbery, Jr. (Byrd Hall 117), and other members of the Committee who are in the Chemistry, Biology, Physics, English, and Psychology Departments. Names of the specific departmental advisors are available from the two Chairmen; and all students, regardless of academic major, are invited and urged to take advantage of this new Citadel service.

LIBRARY, ARCHIVES, AND MUSEUM

Daniel Library

COLONEL JAMES M. HILLARD

B.A., Ohio University; M.L.S., University of Illinois

Director of Libraries

The academic heart of any institution is its library program. Providing a source of study and academic research, the Daniel Library at The Citadel has a main collection of over 240,000 volumes, with approximately 7,500 added each year. The library subscribes to 1,400 periodicals and newspapers. In addition to these magazines and book materials, the library provides the most modern microfilm, microprint, and reproduction methods as well as a well-equipped listening room for modern language and music appreciation study. An efficient staff of five professionally trained officers and 10 clerks provides Library-Museum service 92 hours a week.

The Library provides 450 study seats for the Corps of Cadets plus 67 seats in lounge areas where students may smoke. Every effort has been made to make this not only an efficient place in which to study but a place of beauty. The latest and best library equipment has been coordinated by one of the nation's most talented interior decorators. The Rare Book Room is a fine example of utility of purpose combined with beauty of decor. Here are found the most valuable items of the Library's collection as well as the books dealing with the history of The Citadel.

Three programs have been inaugurated to provide inspiration and to promote a sense of tradition among the Corps of Cadets. The mural program features eight large murals which depict glorious events from the past history of the Corps and the part that it has played in the history of our nation. The "Gallery of Distinguished Alumni" features portraits of some of the more distinguished graduates and cites briefly their accomplishments. The President's Room features portraits of the former superintendents and presidents of The Citadel.

Archives and Museum

CDR. MALACHY J. COLLETT, USNR

A.B., University of Notre Dame;

M.A., Georgetown University

Director, Archives and Museum

The Archives was dedicated in 1966 with the generous donation of General Mark W. Clark's personal, military, and official papers. This collection contains many valuable manuscripts and documents dealing with World War II, the post World War II development of Western Europe, the Korean War, and General Clark's involvement in the successful treaty negotiations of that war.

Included are over 66,000 items of manuscript material and 40,000 photographs, motion picture films, television tapes, newspapers, and newspaper clippings. Microfilm has been acquired from the Eisenhower and Truman Libraries as well as the National Archives to augment the material in General Clark's collection. Recent collections received have included the General W. C. Westmoreland collection, as well as the Vice Admiral Friedrich Ruge collection. Ruge was Rommel's naval advisor during World War II. In April 1974, The L. Mendel Rivers manuscript collection was given to The Citadel by the late Congressman's wife. The Archives also houses the late General Hugh P. Harris collection and the papers of all past Citadel presidents from 1882 and those of many distinguished civic leaders and organizations.

Scholars from throughout the country and from abroad have come to study these collections.

The Museum contains displays which document and depict The Citadel in the development of the history of this country, the South, and South Carolina, in particular. The military weaponry and uniforms used by alumni in all major wars since 1842 are on display. Other major exhibits include an actual cadet room of the early 1900's, and a large electronic map which is narrated by General Mark W. Clark and depicts the movements of American Forces in the European and Mediterranean Theaters during World War II. The Museum has a ring case which contains a ring from each graduating class. There are memorial albums which contain photographs of Citadel war dead from World War II to the present day. The Museum also has lectures and seminars which further the historic and cultural enrichment of the cadets.

Athletics

The Citadel offers a diversified program of athletics which varies in performance level from the required physical education, intramural athletics, and sports club components (conducted by the Department of Physical Education) through 12 varsity teams in Southern Conference competition (conducted by the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics).

The Citadel encourages every cadet to participate in some form of athletics in which he is interested and through which he may develop mind, body, and spirit.

Sports Clubs

One function of the sports club program is to provide limited extramural competition in activities which are not governed by the Southern Conference. Current offerings within this program include the following:

Bicycle

The purpose of this club is to provide training and competition for those interested in cycling through regular time-trials, road races, and criterion races.

Bowling

The bowling club is a member of the South Intercollegiate Bowling Conference and has performed exceptionally well during the past several seasons.

Crew

The crew club is a member of the Southern Rowing Association which sanctions competition during the spring semester. In addition to The Citadel, the conference currently consists of teams from Alabama, Virginia, and Jacksonville. Racing 4- and 8-man shells, the club is consistently among the leaders.

Dive

The purpose of the dive club is to provide instruction and opportunities for experience in skindiving and scuba skills lending toward national certification and advanced participation/competition.

Fencing

The fencing club meets Monday through Thursday from 3 to 5 p.m. No prior fencing experience is necessary to become a member. The fencing club has concentrated on developing each member in the art of foil fencing with the long range goal of training a complete three weapon team composed of the best five fencers in the foil, epee, and sabre. This team will then be ready to compete intercollegiately in NCAA tournaments with an excellent hope of success. All club members are urged to become members of the Amateur Fencers League of America (AFLA), an AAU affiliated organization which conducts all amateur fencing competition in the United States.

Gymnastics

The gymnastics club is a member of the Southern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League and competes regularly with UNC, Florida, Appalachian State University, Western Carolina, LSU, and Georgia. The club also provides occasional half-time entertainment during football and basketball contests.

Lacrosse

Lacrosse, known as the "fastest game on foot," is a fairly new sport at The Citadel. Although the team is young, it is known as one of the top-ranked teams in the Southeast. The lacrosse team plays such teams as the University of Georgia, Georgia Tech, North Carolina State, VMI, VPI, and Clemson.

Lacrosse is a spring sport, but there is a fall training period. The team is made up of members from all four classes and encourages all men to participate.

Martial Arts

The martial arts club is made up of those cadets interested in judo, karate, jujitsu, akia, and related forms of self defense. Competition is occasionally entered on an individual and a club basis at all levels.

Parachute

This club trains and competes through a local commercial organization which has national certification with respect to safety regulations and procedures. The club competes on a regular basis with similar clubs within the state and throughout the Southeast.

Rugby

The Citadel Rugby Club is a newly organized yet very successful club sport at The Citadel. Rugby, known as one of the more rugged sports and the "fastest growing sport in the South," gives cadets a chance to compete with teams from USC, Clemson, Davidson, and Wofford, as well as many other noncollegiate clubs in the South. Usually, first semester is classified as a conditioning period, although some games are played. Second semester offers a full schedule of games. The club is open to inexperienced as well as experienced cadets and faculty.

Southern Conference Sports

Football

Citadel football is a unified team effort in which both the players and cadet spectators give an all-out performance. Experienced and competent coaches provide the coaching expertise while the Corps provides plenty of the necessary spirit. The Corps of Cadets, known as the "twelfth man," supports the team in various ways by attending pep rallies, making banners, and cheering at the games. By putting everything together, The Citadel always provides strong conference contenders.

Basketball

McAlister field house, with improved acoustics, seats approximately 5,000 persons for home basketball games. With home games played on the school campus, the basketball team consistently finds support from the Corps of Cadets, who offer as much a threat to the other team's composure as does the Bulldogs' basketball team. What the team lacks in size it makes up for in aggressive offensive and tough defense. The basketball team is coached by an excellent staff which contributes to the Bulldogs' stamina and success. The team traditionally engages in a tough non-conference schedule, playing the likes of Clemson, Vanderbilt, and USC.

Basketball Coaching Staff

Assistants: Greg Blatt
Richard Johnson

Tennis

The Donald C. Bunch Tennis Courts are the home of The Citadel's fine tennis team and consist of six all-weather composition and four Laykold tennis courts plus a club house. The Citadel has the distinction of being one of the few colleges in the Southeast to have such admirable facilities.

Each spring The Citadel netters face opposition from Southern Conference schools and sectional powers such as Harvard, Rollins, and the University of South Carolina. Highlighting the season is the Southern Conference tennis tournament in which The Citadel has always been a strong contender. Tennis is important at The Citadel and is a rapidly rising sport in the competitive field as well as a recreational activity.

Baseball

The Citadel baseball program was greatly aided by the leasing of College Park, where the "Bulldogs" play night and day games against some of the most formidable foes in the South. The Citadel baseball team has defeated nationally-ranked teams and always provides an exciting and daring style of baseball. Baseball at The Citadel is widely supported by the Corps of Cadets. The baseball season begins in early February and ends in the middle of May. In 1975 the Bulldogs captured the Southern Conference crown, enabling them to participate in the NCAA tournament.

Track

Each season, the team competes in such outstanding track and field meets as the Southern Conference indoor and outdoor meets, the South Carolina state meet, the USC Relays, and the Florida Relays. Besides these meets, the team faces opposition in the form of Eastern Conference and Atlantic Coast Conference teams. The campus track, which surrounds Wilson Field, is made up of a quarter-mile track now measured in meters.

Cross Country

The cross country team at The Citadel is one of the college's most improved intercollegiate teams. The squad competes every fall in dual meets with Southern Conference teams and also in invitational meets such as the Stone Mountain Invitational Race in Atlanta, Ga. In recent years The Citadel harriers have posted impressive wins over such powers as East Carolina and Richmond. The 1972 season saw The Citadel finish third in the Southern Conference meet behind Furman and nationally prominent William and Mary.

The season culminates in the Southern Conference meet held at alternate sites throughout the conference. If qualifying standards are met, the team will then compete in the NCAA regional meet at a predetermined site. The home races are held on campus.

Golf

The golf team at The Citadel is one of the college's most consistent winners. The 1963 team won the Southern Conference championship. The varsity team plays from 8 to 15 matches and participates in a number of tournaments, including the Azalea Tournament, the South Carolina Intercollegiate Championship, and a four-way match at the nationally known Dunes Country Club in Myrtle Beach.

The Citadel golf team uses the facilities at Shadowmoss Country Club, and the early spring weather here enables practice to begin in early February.

Wrestling

The Citadel wrestlers take 8 to 10 of the best wrestling teams in the South. The season is climaxed by participation in the annual Southern Conference tournament held at alternate sites in the conference. The Citadel won this tournament in 1967 and became the Southern Conference champions for the first time in 31 years. In 1976 The Citadel had the outstanding wrestler of the year in Mike Regner who went on to defeat two opponents before bowing out in the NCAA tournament.

The squad is made up of 35 men from all four classes and follows the intercollegiate rules of "catch as catch can." The wrestlers begin their period of intense training in November and the season comes to a close the first of March.

Rifle

The Citadel rifle team is one of the intercollegiate rifle powers of the United States. This team recently won more than 150 matches and is always in contention for the national championship. In 1963 and 1965, The Citadel held the national championship. In 1964, The Citadel rifle team was the high ROTC team in the nation.

More than 50 of the athletic trophies on campus belong to The Citadel rifle team. The team possesses greater depth than any other team in the nation and consistently defeats its opposition, including teams from the United States Naval Academy, the United States Air Force Academy, and the Coast Guard Academy. The winning spirit of The Citadel rifle team has become traditional, and it is something of which the Corps of Cadets boasts with pride.

Soccer

The Citadel soccer team was formed in mid-October of 1966 as the soccer club and later that year became recognized as a varsity sport. In their first year, the team played Davidson, West Virginia, and Furman.

The soccer team has a varied schedule and in recent seasons has played Davidson, South Carolina, the Baptist College, Jacksonville University, and Furman. The team has also played the German Naval Academy and the British Naval Academy. In 1974 the team captured the Southern Division of the Southern Conference. The team consistently produces all-conference players, and in the summer of 1976 the team toured Holland.

Swimming

The swimming team has been reorganized after several years' layoff. The Deas Hall 25-meter pool complements the team. Training begins in the fall and continues until competition begins in December. Emory, Appalachian, Furman, and the College of Charleston are some of the schools against which The Citadel competes. With experience, training, and added depth, the swimming team promises to be very successful.

Cheerleaders

An important group within the college is the cheerleader squad, whose job is to lead cheering at football games as well as other athletic events. The cheerleaders are chosen from the Corps at the end of each year. Members of all classes are eligible and are encouraged to try out. During the football season the cheerleaders organize Corps pep rallies preceding home games.

The College Colors—Blue and White

Unlike most Citadel customs and traditions, which have developed over a long period of time, the college colors were chosen in the interest of expediency. In the spring of 1899, Cadet Captain John W. Moore, manager of the baseball team, secured permission to take the team on its first road trip. Prior to that time all athletic contests had been staged locally. As other colleges had colors which were displayed in athletic contests, Cadet Moore and two or three friends decided that blue and white made an appropriate combination; they hastily had pennants made in these colors to take along.

Although born out of necessity, the colors were readily accepted by the Corps and have endured to this day.

Citadel Cheers

The Citadel Fight Song — “Dixie”***

Oh, I wish I was in the land of cotton
Old times they are not forgotten
Look Away! Look Away! Look Away! Dixieland!
In Dixieland where I was born
Early on a frosty morning,
Look Away! Look Away! Look Away! Dixieland!

Oh I wish I was in Dixie, Hooray! Hooray!
In Dixieland I'll take my stand to live
And die in Dixie,
Away! Away! Away down South in Dixie!
Away! Away! Away down South in Dixie!

The Citadel Ramble

Citadel had a Bulldog, with short and grizzly hair,
Carolina had a Gamecock, now wouldn't that make a pair?
And when they get together, there's bound to be a scrap:
Just watch The Citadel Bulldog wipe the Gamecock off the map.

They rambled, they rambled,
They rambled all around, in and out of town,
Oh, they rambled, they rambled,
They rambled till the Bulldog cut him down.

The Alma Mater

Oh Citadel, we sing thy fame
For all the world to hear.
And in the paths our fathers showed us
Follow without fear.
Peace and Honor, God and Country,
We will fight for thee.
Oh Citadel, we praise thee now
And in Eternity.

Oh Citadel, though strife surrounds us,
We will ever be
Full conscious of the benefits
That we derive from thee.
Stand forever, yielding never
To the tyrant's Hell

THE CITADEL BULLDOG
MADE IN U.S.A. 1984

MADE IN U.S.A. 1984

We'll never cease our struggles for Our mighty Citadel.

Activities

ACTIVITIES

Apart from the military and educational duties that cadets are required to participate in every day, there are extracurricular activities and organizations to suit every cadet. Although some of these organizations are reserved for upperclassmen, others for those with high grade-point ratios, and others for those of specific majors, there are a multitude of activities that the new cadet may participate in with new ones opening to him with each passing year. There is ample opportunity to diversify and enrich each cadet experience at The Citadel.

Committees

Activities Advisory Committee

The regimental activities officer is the chairman of the Activities Advisory Committee. It is composed of the class presidents, the Master of Revels, the Chairman of the Standing Hop Committee, the Chairman of the Ring and Invitations Committee, the Chairman of the Campus Movie Committee, one veteran student, and one junior or senior from each battalion. The purpose of the committee is to advise The Citadel's director of student activities concerning all activities under his jurisdiction including student publications, social activities, the beach and yacht clubs.

Beach Club Committee

The Citadel Beach Club Committee is made up of one representative from each battalion, the regimental staff, and each company in the Corps of Cadets. Its members serve not only to assist in the operation of the beach club but also as a contact for cadets through the Corps.

Fine Arts Committee

Inaugurated in 1965, the Fine Arts Series provides the Corps with an introduction to cultural pursuits by presenting a wide variety of programs, including opera singers, musical ensembles and soloists, traditional dance groups from around the world, Shakespearean plays, and classical dramatic presentations. Maj. Woodrow L. Holbein is chairman of the Fine Arts Committee, which operates under the general administration of the director of student activities, Col. Joseph P. Goodson.

The Honor Committee

The Cadet Honor Committee is the group of cadets upon whom rests the actual functions of the honor system. Members are elected at the end of each academic year from the rising senior class. A member of the cadet Honor Committee may well feel proud of his position, for the student body has entrusted him with the responsibility of upholding the Honor Code. Such trust is not to be lightly taken. Being elected to this committee is one of the highest honors which a cadet may achieve in his career at The Citadel. The nature of the work carried out by this group places it among the top campus organizations. The faculty advisor for the committee is Maj. James W. Rembert of the English Department.

Menu Committee

The Menu Committee is composed of the regimental supply officer and the four battalion supply officers. This group meets once a month with the mess hall officials to solve problems and to offer suggestions to improve the food and the service. Also, use of the mess hall facilities by the Corps for various activities is discussed.

Museum Committee

The Citadel Museum Committee, which consists of cadet volunteers from the upper three classes, was established to preserve historical items and traditions of The Citadel. The committee collects and catalogues items of a military nature and objects connected with the history of The Citadel and the Confederacy. These cadets are responsible for the obtaining of pertinent items for new displays and for the rearranging of present displays.

Orphanage Fund Committee

The Citadel Orphanage Fund Drive was originated in 1952 by Cadet Carmen A. Peccorelli. Its objective is to give the children of Charleston area orphanages a better Christmas. The committee collects donations from the Corps, finds out what is needed at each orphanage, and purchases the most needed items. All money used in buying the gifts comes from the cadets, and no donations are solicited from outside sources.

Presidential Advisory Committee

The Presidential Advisory Committee, first introduced by General Mark W. Clark, has the purpose of keeping the school's administration and the Corps of Cadets working together in a congenial relationship. The Corps is represented by the regimental commander, the regimental executive officer, the four battalion commanders, the president of the senior class, the regimental athletic officer, the regimental sergeant major, the elected representatives of the sophomore and junior classes, and two representatives of the special students. These people meet with the president of The Citadel once a month to discuss the grievances of the Corps of Cadets and other students. Any student may present his complaint to a member of the Advisory Committee with the assurance that it will receive prompt and proper attention.

Procurement Committee

The Procurement Committee is the cadet organization on campus whose mission revolves around recruiting young men to attend The Citadel. On certain weekends, the committee sponsors a weekend visitor program, so that high school seniors may observe firsthand the life at The Citadel. ### The Ring and Invitation Committee

This committee is composed of five cadets selected at the beginning of their third class year. It is their duty to study bids submitted by companies for the class rings as well as the graduation invitations. This committee is in direct charge of ordering and distributing the rings and commencement invitations to the members of the first class.

Standing Hop Committee

All Citadel dances are under the sponsorship of the Standing Hop Committee, an organization elected by the cadets from the student body. The duties of this committee are to set dates for the dances, provide bands, and coordinate the hops held for the Corps.

The cadet hops are the highlights of the social activities of the cadet. These dances are for cadets only, and few invitations are given to civilians. Although the Ring Hop, Homecoming Hop, and Corps Day Hop are formal affairs, by tradition the ladies do not wear corsages.

In addition to the formal hops, several informal dances, called senior parties, are held throughout the year. These dances are produced by the senior class and are not under the jurisdiction of the Standing Hop Committee.

Company Awards

The President's Cup

The President's Cup was established by the president of The Citadel in 1967. It is awarded annually to the cadet company which establishes the highest combined score in academic, military, intramural, other extracurricular, and disciplinary accomplishments during the preceding college year. The President's Cup is the highest honor that can be won by a cadet company.

Charles P. Summerall Cup

This award was donated by the European Citadel Association and is awarded annually for one year to the company of cadets with the best academic achievement. The award consists of a blue streamer which is attached to the guidon of that company for the following year. Though this is not an individual award, all companies within the Corps strive to win it. It signifies industrious effort in the scholastic field and is an honor of which the winning company may feel justly proud.

The Commandant's Cup

To the best-drilled company the commandant of cadets presents The Commandant's Cup and a gold streamer to be attached to the company guidon. In addition, each member of the company is authorized to wear upon the sleeve of his dress blouse a small gold bar which denotes his membership in the best-drilled company of the past year. This is among the most coveted awards on campus as the recipient is usually considered to be the honor company. The cup was presented to The Citadel by the late Lt. Col. W. C. Miller.

Cadets of all classes find the etiquette reference library in the Hostess office helpful with social questions. The Hostess Department also aids cadets in finding suitable quarters for young ladies visiting Charleston and housing for summer school and special students.

Parent's Day

Parent's Day, which is usually the last weekend in October, the fourthclassmen officially become cadets and may drop "recruit" from their names. This day is dedicated to parents, and classrooms and barracks are open for their inspection. A review is given in their honor. Lunch is served in the mess hall for the cadets, their parents, and friends. A football game in the afternoon rounds out the day.

Homecoming

Each year in November, Citadel alumni return to the campus from all parts of the United States to see their old classmates and to revive memories of their cadet careers. The weekend opens with a hop on Friday night. On Saturday the barracks are open for inspection and a review is given in honor of the visiting alumni. After the noon meal in the cadet mess hall, a football game with the selection of Miss Citadel brings the weekend to a close.

Corps Day

Corps Day, the birthday of the Corps of Cadets, is celebrated the preceding Saturday nearest March 20, the date in 1843 when the first Corps reported to The Citadel. Ceremonies during Senior Week include a baccalaureate service in the Summerall Chapel, "Star of the West" competition, and an awards parade followed by official recognition of the fourthclassmen as upperclassmen.

Composed of a group of more than 35 cadets, this organization gives interested cadets instruction and experience in public speaking and debate and an opportunity to discuss topics of current interest.

Cadets of all four classes may join this society, and the semi-monthly meetings are open to all, giving speakers an opportunity to speak to the general public. Several distinguished speakers are invited during the academic year to talk on subjects chosen by the society's members.

RELIGIOUS ACTIVITIES

The Citadel is non-sectarian, but its high objectives cannot be achieved unless its education program is founded on a solid religious life. It is significant that the college, in planning its building program, thought of a cadet chapel, which in size, dignity, and beauty would be a fitting reminder to all cadets that education must be founded upon spiritual strength. This building, always accessible, imposing, and churchly, is dedicated to faith in God and dedication to country.

In keeping with the religious emphasis at The Citadel, a full-time chaplain is available to all cadets for counseling, guidance, and spiritual advice. Chaplain (Colonel) James R. Boggs, a retired U.S. Army chaplain, assumed this duty in April 1977. As director of chaplains, he is responsible for coordinating the total religious program at The Citadel.

The Citadel Religious Council

The purpose of the Religious Council is to act as an advisory board to the college chaplain. They assist the chaplain in planning and implementing the religious programs of the year.

The council is composed of the presidents of the religious groups on campus and of representatives elected by the Corps at large.

Cadet Choirs

The Cadet Chapel Choir is composed of selected voices from within the Corps of Cadets. Each year there are approximately 40 openings for fourthclassmen. In addition to singing every Sunday at the General Protestant service, the choir is also available to sing upon invitation at local churches during the school year. The choir is conducted by Maj. Earl R. Mays.

The Episcopal Choir serves the St. Alban's congregation. It sings at various services in local churches upon request by the churches and consent by the choir members and provides anthems and special musical effects for services on important weekends. It meets once a week for practice and is commanded each year by a senior cadet.

The Catholic Choir sings for regularly scheduled Masses and is open to all Catholic cadets. The new Combined Choirs sing for ecumenical services, and are featured in the Christmas Music Festival.

Religious Groups

For Episcopal cadets there is the Canterbury Club; for Roman Catholic cadets, Christ the Divine Teacher Parish and the Newman Chapter; for the Jewish, the Hillel Society; for the Presbyterian group, the Westminister Fellowship; for the Methodist group, the Wesley Foundation; for the Baptist group, the Baptist Student Union; for the Lutheran, the Lutheran Student Association; and for the Greek Orthodox, the Greek Orthodox Group. These and others meet on Monday evening for instruction by the chaplain or campus ministers, and social functions are planned in cooperation with civilian young people's groups of similar churches in Charleston. Voluntary religious organizations, including The Navigators and The Fellowship of Christian Athletes are also active on The Citadel campus.

Religious Services

Cadets are encouraged to regard contacts with the chaplain to the Corps of Cadets and campus ministers as vital to their education and development and the act of worship as a deeply significant experience that should be accompanied by dignity, reverence, and gratitude. The inscription on the front of the Chapel is "Remember Now Thy Creator in the Days of Thy Youth." (Ecclesiastes Chapter 12:1)

OFF-CAMPUS ATTRACTIONS

Because many cadets are not aware that the Charleston metropolitan area has so much to offer for entertainment and education, this brief section will note the more permanent, historical places to see. Restaurants and other more commercialized attractions can be found in The Charleston Gateway, a monthly publication that gives a survey of the "arts, business, dining, clubs, hotels, and motels" in the area.

Charleston's Famous Gardens

MIDDLETON PLACE, U.S. Highway 61. Nineteenth century elegance exemplified in America's oldest landscaped

garden. Majestic terraces, intricate walks, butterfly lakes, and vast plantings confirm the Garden Club of America's accolade, "The most important and interesting garden in America." Open every day of the year.

MAGNOLIA GARDENS, on U.S. 61, owned by the Drayton family since 1671, are famous for their century-old camelias and azaleas in a setting of such carefully contrived naturalness that one can hardly imagine anyone actually having planned this effect. Planned, however, it was by the Rev. John Grimke Drayton.

A visit to CYPRESS GARDENS, off U.S. Highway 22, on three lands of old Dean Hall Plantation, is a visit to the fairyland of romance. Mysterious lagoons, shaded by darkly looming cypress trees . . . islands and banks ablaze with the riotous colors of azaleas, roses, camelias, and daffodils.

INFORMATION

Advice to the Incoming Fourth Class

The Guidon is the fourth class orientation and information manual, designed to familiarize you with the customs and traditions of The Citadel. It also serves as an authoritative source of information about the college and its way of life. For this reason, you should read it carefully several times before your departure from home in order that you may be better prepared to begin your Knob Year. Be thoroughly familiar with its contents and especially with the contents of this section.

The Fourth Class System Manual of the college requires that members of the freshman class learn prescribed fourth-class knowledge by specified dates. Listed below, in the order to be learned, is the portion of that knowledge found in The Guidon. Begin to memorize these items now. Since your first weeks at The Citadel will be filled with activities, you will have little spare time, and it will be to your advantage to learn this information before reporting to The Citadel.

1. The Cadet Prayer
2. The Alma Mater
3. Familiarization with the Honor System
4. Familiarization with the history of The Citadel
5. Organization of the Corps of Cadets
6. Names, locations, and significance of buildings and places of interest on campus
7. Heads of academic departments
8. Administrative staff of the college
9. Phonetic alphabet
10. Rank insignia of armed forces
11. Insignia of cadet rank

12. Cadet TO & E (Cadet Chain of Command), which will be furnished you in your packet, at the time you receive your company assignment. DO NOT WRITE.
13. Guard orders

Clothing and Bedding

On pages 56-58 of the 1977-1978 catalogue of The Citadel is a listing of the clothing, bedding, and other articles you must bring with you. Do not mark these items prior to reporting to The Citadel; you will be issued a marking kit for this purpose after your arrival.

You are strongly advised to break in your cadet uniform shoes by wearing them at least two weeks prior to arrival. Begin to shine them before you leave home. High gloss corfam shoes are permitted for fourthclassmen, though they may only be worn to class and are never authorized for use at inspections.

A bedspread and a blanket will be issued to you (both are in Citadel colors).

Cadets of the training cadre will be on hand to meet you on arrival at The Citadel. If you arrive by private car, go directly to your assigned barracks. If you arrive by other means of public transportation, you should ask as to the best means of being transported to The Citadel.

Release Forms

From time to time our cadets have opportunities to take cruises on Navy ships here in Charleston and fly with the U.S. Air Force. Both services require that releases be signed and kept on file at The Citadel. Also, giving blood and participating in the Yacht Club require release forms. If you are to be able to take advantage of these opportunities, have your parents fill out the proper forms and return them to the Commandant of Cadets, The Citadel, Charleston, S.C. 29409.

Guide to the Conduct and Well-being of the Fourth Class

The following is a practical guide for the general conduct and well-being of incoming freshmen. You should read it thoroughly, for it contains the keys to your success as a knob in the Corps of Cadets. The life of a knob is a strenuous one and requires a conscientious effort to conform to Citadel traditions and measure up to Citadel standards. To insure your success as a knob and a Citadel cadet, keep the following comments—which are in reality bits of friendly advice—in mind from the moment you enter the campus. This will be your way of life.

1. For all practical purposes, you are no longer a civilian. Certain forms of speech such as "Yeah" and "O.K." will no longer be part of your vocabulary. "Yes, Sir," "No, Sir," and "No excuse, Sir" will become very common to you in your conversations with upperclassmen. In oral communications, you must refer to an upperclassman as "Mister . . ."
2. When you receive an order, carry it out to the best of your ability. Never argue or offer suggestions which you might think better.
3. Maintain a good posture and take pride in your military bearing. A Citadel man is easily recognized because of his posture. Therefore, it is essential that you always stand erect. If you should forget, or not bother to practice proper posture, you will soon be reminded.
4. The life of a cadet is far removed from your former way of living. A "lone wolf" will find it impossible to survive within the Corps. Your classmates are your only companions, since familiarity toward upperclassmen is prohibited. Start off right by getting acquainted with them. However, never be afraid to ask an upperclassman a question; request permission first and you will find him ready and willing to assist you at any time.

5. Being indoctrinated into a new way of life will present problems from time to time. Remember, however, that "griping" only makes matters worse. When these problems do arise, approach them frankly and with the will to overcome them. Work hard, and work diligently. A thorough job will usually reap a sufficient reward.

6. Facetiousness will not be tolerated. When asked a question give a brief, concise answer, and do not attempt to be "funny."

7. A cadet holds the highest esteem for the uniform he wears. For many years it has commanded recognition and respect. Never injure that respect by acting in a manner that will reflect discredit upon you or The Citadel. This would constitute a serious infraction of regulations, and would dishonor the traditions of The Citadel.

Discipline

“The discipline which makes the soldiers of a free country reliable in battle is not to be gained by harsh or tyrannical treatment. On the contrary, such treatment is far more likely to destroy than to make an army. It is possible to impart instruction and to give commands in such a manner and such a tone of voice to inspire in the soldier no feeling but an intense desire to obey, while the opposite manner and tone of voice cannot fail to excite strong resentment and desire to disobey. The one mode or the other of dealing with subordinates springs from a corresponding spirit in the breast of the commander. He who feels the respect which is due to others cannot fail to inspire in them regard for himself, while he who feels and hence manifests, disrespect toward others, especially his inferiors, cannot fail to inspire hatred against himself.”

Major General John M. Schofield, USA

The Fourth Class System

The purpose of the Fourth Class System at The Citadel is to provide a base upon which a fourthclassman may develop those qualities essential to a good leader. It is predicated upon the principle that no one is fit to command who has not learned to obey. The system, both difficult and demanding, requires a full measure of mental preparedness, physical endurance, and self-discipline and is to be conducted with formal impartiality. Administration of this system rests with the Corps under the supervision of the commandant of cadets.

Success in any career demands qualities such as prompt and willing obedience to authority, loyalty, self-control, accuracy, reliability, courtesy, and confidence. The system consists of a collection of traditional customs which function to develop the above qualities, to maintain discipline in the new class, and to continue the long-established customs in the Corps as a whole.

Knob Week

According to custom, cadets of the incoming fourth class report to duty one week before the school term opens. Outstanding cadets from the three upper classes compose a training cadre and take command of the fourthclassmen to give them preliminary training. During this first week the fourthclassmen are oriented to the life of Citadel cadets.

During this week uniforms are issued, and various meetings with faculty officers and advisors are held. Drill is begun, and the first rudiments of the manual of arms are taught. During the first week the new cadets will become acquainted with the various facilities of the college, such as the library, academic buildings, the chapel, canteen, and Mark Clark Hall.

After a week of this introductory training, the entire Corps arrives, and the school term begins. For those of you who are unaccustomed to military training, it may seem the longest week of your lives. Do not be discouraged; you will soon be proud that you are a Citadel cadet.

Administration of the Fourth Class System

1. The Fourth Class System is conducted by the upper three classes of the Corps of Cadets, under the supervision of the cadet regimental commander, who is responsible to the commandant of cadets. Proper functioning of the system is the responsibility of the cadet chain of command and the company tactical officers.
2. The battalion commanders will insure that the Fourth Class System is properly administered within their battalions.

They will make spot checks during times of special inspections to insure that no undue assumption of authority is taken.

3. The company commander is responsible for the functioning of the Fourth Class System within his company. He will assure that awards to fourthclassmen are consistent with delinquencies, that only authorized punishments are imposed, and that appropriate action is taken to correct abuses of the Fourth Class System which may arise. He will make inspections during the times designated for special inspections to insure that no undue assumption of authority is taken.

4. The squad leader is responsible for the administration of the Fourth Class System in his squad and supervises the execution of punishment imposed.

5. Fourth class punishments will not take precedence over any scheduled study.

6. The Fourth Class System remains in effect throughout the college year. It will be initiated by an appropriate formation held at a time and place designated by the commandant of cadets during "Knob Week" and will be terminated by a formal company recognition ceremony.

Disciplinary Training in the Corps of Cadets

The commandant of cadets commands the Corps of Cadets and controls the daily routine of duties. He grants leave and other privileges provided by regulations and is charged with the maintenance of discipline over all cadets attending The Citadel. The department exercises supervision over barracks, controls the officer in charge and the cadet guard, and keeps the president of the college informed of matters pertaining to the conduct and discipline of the Corps of Cadets.

The Citadel is a military college, and it is therefore essential that a high standard of discipline be maintained. Through a system of merits and demerits, a record is kept of the conduct of each cadet. This record influences his military standing. Privileges of cadets who fail to respond to ordinary corrective measures are curtailed. Any cadet exceeding the allowed limit of demerits for the year will be dismissed.

Cadet officers and noncommissioned officers are responsible for maintaining discipline, for instructing those placed under their control, and for setting a soldierly example at all times. It is the duty of every cadet officer and noncommissioned officer to support the authority of his superiors and to assert his own authority whenever a breach of discipline makes it necessary at any place and under any circumstances. In any situation, the responsibility for the maintenance of order and discipline rests with the highest-ranking present.

Hazing (any authorized assumption of authority by one cadet over another whereby the latter shall or may suffer any cruelty, indignity, or oppression, or the deprivation of any right, privilege, or advantage to which he shall be legally entitled) is forbidden. The maintenance of a high standard of discipline does not imply the cadets should be required to perform duties or acts which do not have beneficial effects. No cadet should be required to perform any duty or act for the pleasure or because of the whim of any upperclassman. All orders or instructions must be based on sound judgment.

Instructions or orders issued by cadets in their official status should be for the benefit of the Corps and the individual or individuals concerned. When orders have been issued, they should be followed up with firmness and insistence upon proper execution. While demerits are given to cadets for delinquencies and a cadet's conduct record is determined by his number of demerits, no one should rely on delinquency reports and demerits as the only means of enforcing orders. This applies especially to the training of fourthclassmen.

Cadet officers and noncommissioned officers should endeavor to instruct and bring new cadets up to the standards of The Citadel.

New cadets will be taught the following:

1. Courtesy and proper deportment at all times.
2. Proper posture.
3. Promptness. All cadets should be taught to be prompt in reporting to meetings, formations, or assemblies. It is proper for company commanders to require new cadets to report early in order to check appearances without holding up a formation.
4. Thoroughness. All cadets should be taught to do a job well and in keeping with traditions of a military college. When a cadet has been reported for failure to perform a duty properly, the reporting officer should be certain that the cadet thoroughly understands the required standard before reporting the cadet again for the same offense.

While the above comments have been made with emphasis on the training of new cadets, it is the responsibility of cadet officers and cadet noncommissioned officers to see that cadets other than fourthclassmen maintain the standards of The Citadel. Each cadet officer or noncommissioned officer must bear in mind that he should be an example to other cadets. It has often been truly said, "A unit reflects its commander." The new cadet unconsciously will emulate or copy those who are in control of him. It must be remembered that a true leader is selfless and willing to do anything that he asks his men to do. He must be loyal to those under him as well as those above him. His sense of duty and honor must be of the highest nature. He must be proud of his unit and must instill his pride in every individual under him.

Fourth Class Customs

1. Definitions: A fourthclassman is a freshman; a third-classman, a sophomore; a secondclassman, a junior; a firstclassman, a senior.

2. Obedience: Fourthclassman will instantly obey any lawful order by an upperclassman. Protest may be made later if the order is believed to be improper.

3. Limits: The following places are off limits for the fourth class:

- a. Front of barracks except between 1600 and 2300 hours (4 p.m. to 11 p.m.) and during general leave.
- b. All grassed areas, except when in athletic uniform.

4. Posture: Fourthclassman will stand at attention at all formations and will not talk except officially. Outside their rooms and on the quadrangles they will run at attention and at double time. Beyond these limits and in public view, they will maintain a military posture at all times.

5. Reporting to an upperclassman: When reporting to an upperclassman in a room, the fourthclassman will remove his cap and use the prescribed military form for reporting—"Sir,

Mr. — —, Sir, Cadet Recruit — — reporting as ordered." In making his report, he will use complete sentences.

6. Uniforms: Fourthclassmen will not appear outside of their rooms except in proper uniform. During study hours in barracks they are required to wear a complete uniform such as pajamas, bathrobe, and slippers or any other complete uniform.

7. Formations: Fourthclassmen will be present in ranks at first call (five minutes prior to assembly) for all company formations.

8. Fatigue duty: Fourthclassmen will perform all the fatigue duty of the Corps by roster. This duty consists of such things as distributing laundry parcels, acting as messengers of the guard, cleaning the gallery, etc.

9. Dining hall: Fourthclassmen will observe the following customs in the dining hall:

a. At the foot of the steps they will remove or replace caps on entering or leaving the dining hall.

b. They will walk rapidly to their assigned seats after entering and stand at attention behind their chairs until given "Take Seats" by the senior cadet at each table. They will restrict their eyes to their table except when in the process of their official table duties.

c. They will sit erect on the front three inches of their chairs and maintain proper posture while they are eating. When addressed, they will sit at attention.

d. They will observe proper etiquette.

e. They will be prepared to give "knob knowledge" and other knowledge authorized by The Fourth Class System Manual.

- f. When on the stairs or gallery they will ask permission to pass upperclassmen and will halt to permit upperclassmen to pass them.
- g. They will not smoke except in their rooms or in authorized rooms in Mark Clark Hall and library.

Military Bearing

An impressive military bearing, one of the attributes of a successful officer, is attained only by conscious desire and marked endeavor. A fourthclassman can achieve this requisite by diligent application of the instructions received from cadet officers and noncommissioned officers. In order to impress upon the fourthclassman the necessity of maintaining a good posture, it is a violation of a military regulation for a cadet to disregard his posture. Other fourth class regulations require that a knob maintain a rigid position of attention at all formations, for compulsory attention to one's posture during the first year will lead to a natural military bearing. As in the wearing of the uniform, a cadet's self-pride demands that he develop an excellent and impressive posture; and in doing so, he will adhere to the traditions of the institution.

The Hand Salute

The salute is a privilege and a mark of distinction of the serviceman. You should know when and how to salute. Never take a humble attitude while rendering a salute; never bend your head or look down; face the person whom you are saluting, stand erect and dignified, and execute the salute with precision.

1. Execution of the hand salute.

a. The hand salute is rendered within saluting distance, which is defined as the distance within which recognition is easy. The salute is begun when the subordinate is six paces from the person saluted or, in case the nearest approach is beyond the distance, six paces from the point of nearest approach.

b. Before the instant arrives to render the salute, look squarely and frankly at the person to be saluted.

c. When saluting a superior officer, execute the first movement and hold the position until the salute is acknowledged, and then complete the salute by dropping the hand smartly to the side.

2. General rules of when and where to salute

a. The junior takes the initiative in saluting, as he does in all forms of military courtesy.

b. At the first note of the national anthem, all dismounted personnel will face the music, stand at attention, and render the prescribed salute, except that at the "escort of the colors" or "retreat" they face toward the colors or the flag.

- c. If a cadet is riding in a car on campus when "Retreat" is playing, he will stop the car, get out, stand at attention, and salute the flag.
- d. All officers of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, Coast Guard, and all officers of foreign services are entitled to salutes.
- e. Members of the college faculty are entitled to receive the salute.
- f. During the training period, all cadet recruits are required to salute all cadet commissioned officers as part of the primary instruction they undergo.
- g. The cadet officer of the day, who is recognizable by his red brassard and sword, will be saluted by all cadets, irrespective of class or rank.
- h. When you are approaching a superior face to face, six paces is the proper distance at which to salute; in all other cases, at the nearest point of approach where recognition is possible.
  - i. Never have one hand in pocket, coat unbuttoned, or any other evidence of unmilitary bearing when rendering the salute. The same regulations apply to salutations between persons when either person is in civilian clothes.
  - j. If you should meet an officer while you are moving at double time, slow to quick time, and render the salute in the regulation manner.
  - k. If you are moving at double time for a formation or some place where your presence is required at a specific time, do not slow to quick time and do not render the salute.
  - l. If you meet an officer when you are uncovered, stand at attention, face the officer, and say: "Good morning (afternoon, evening, etc.), Sir."

- m. Salute officers while you are in athletic uniform unless actually participating in a game. If colors are paraded in the vicinity, a game is stopped and colors saluted.
- n. Do NOT salute:
  - (1) When in ranks, except by command.
  - (2) When occupying a grandstand at an athletic contest.
  - (3) At certain times when men and officers are working together and saluting would otherwise have to be rendered every few seconds because of constant personal contact.
  - (4) Never salute a superior when he has his back to you.

Forms of Report

ALL IN: When rooms are being checked at the beginning of study periods or at the end of general leave, a report is called for. The report shall be "all in" by the inspector followed by the reply of the occupants. "Cadet absent or visiting, etc., Sir" or simply "All in" if the occupants are present. Any cadet who is absent from his room, no matter what the reason, is not in and must be reported as such. "All in" reports are made on the cadet's honor.

ALL RIGHT: The report "all right" when made by a cadet outside his own room means that he is going to or returning from an authorized place only; by the occupants of a room means that all occupants of the room are present or absent by authority. The report "all right" will be given to the sergeant of the Lesesne Gate when departing campus during weekdays to indicate the leave is authorized.

OS&D: Over, short, and damaged is the report of the condition of cadet room and the equipment in it. During room inspection of Saturday Morning Inspecting (SMI), the company assistant 1st sergeant reports "OS&D" to each cadet room to be followed by the reply of the occupants, "No, Sir" if there is no oversupply, undersupply, or damage to the room or its equipment. If there is such oversupply, undersupply, or damage the occupants then report it to the assistant 1st sergeant.

Fourth Class Knowledge

As a group of men develops its own language and terms over long years of association, traditions and customs grow up which carry from class to class and enrich the institution. Cadet terms and expressions are not the product of one mind or one class, but an accumulation of over 130 years of Citadel experiences to suit changing conditions. Within a short time new cadets will find such phrases as "salt and pepper," "spit and shine," and "drive by" to be second nature. They will hear the barracks walls resound to the commands of the first sergeant, and they will "pop to" under the constant surveillance of the "NCO's." Long afterwards, when memories of the fourth class year have all faded away, the remembrance of shining up for "SMI's," or writing to the "OAO" will become fond memories, to be cherished always as a part of life at The Citadel.:

Post Flag, 19 feet by 10 feet—for general use.

Storm Flag, 9 feet by 5 feet—used for stormy or windy weather.

The regiment carries two silk flags known respectively as the National and Regimental Colors or Standards.

Colors are carried by the dismounted regiment as infantry, and are 5 feet 6 inches by 4 feet 4 inches on the pikes.

General Guard Orders

Guard Duty is military duty of cadets at The Citadel. Cadets serving guard must follow the rules and regulations concerning guard set down by the college. The three general guard orders are as follows:

1. I will guard everything within the limits of my post and quit my post only when properly relieved.
2. I will obey my special orders and perform all my duties in a military manner.
3. I will report violations of my special orders, emergencies, and anything not covered in my special instructions to the commander or the relief.

THE CORPS OF CADETS

Organization of the Corps of Cadets

The South Carolina Corps of Cadets constitutes a regiment. It is commanded by a cadet colonel and his staff with the direct supervision and control by the commandant and the tactical officers. Under the cadet colonel's direct control are four battalion commanders and their staffs, each one of whom is the commander of one of the four barracks in which the cadets are billeted. In each battalion are four companies, each commanded by a cadet captain. The company is the basic administrative unit to which the new cadet will find himself assigned immediately upon arrival at the school. Each company is divided into three platoons, each one of which is under the supervision of a cadet second lieutenant. The platoons are further subdivided into three squads headed by a cadet sergeant, and the squads are the smallest units within the Corps.

It behooves each incoming cadet to become thoroughly familiar with the above organization of the Corps as an integral part of the military system at The Citadel.

Appointment of Cadet Officers and Noncommissioned Officers

For instruction in military drill and discipline, the Corps of Cadets is organized as the president, with the advice of the commandant of cadets, prescribes. Cadet officers and non-commissioned officers are appointed by the commandant of cadets with the approval of the president.

Under the rank system employed at The Citadel, corporals are selected from the third class, sergeants (buck, staff, first, and master sergeants and sergeant majors) are selected from the second class, and commissioned officers (second lieutenant, first lieutenant, captain, major, lieutenant colonel, and colonel) are chosen from the first class.

Once each year the cadets in each company are rated by cadets in their respective companies and by the company tactical officers. The members of the first and second classes rate members of the second, third, and fourth classes.

Members of the third class rate members of their own class and of the fourth class, and members of the fourth class rate their own classmates.

Late in the second semester of each year, the upper echelons of the company chain of command prepare an order of military merit list which is used with peer ratings to determine cadet effectiveness.

Each cadet is rated in comparison with all other members of his class in his company with respect to his ability and his aptitude for leadership. The criterion for rating each cadet is his ability (if or when placed in command of a group) to elicit the group's maximum cooperation, to maintain the highest possible standards of administration and leadership, and at the same time to develop and preserve high morale and group spirit. Some of the more important traits which are considered in rating a cadet are moral fiber, integrity, honesty, and reliability; common sense and judgment; emotional stability and self-control; personal magnetism; cooperation; initiative, industry, and application; bearing and personal appearance; physical fitness, and scholastic competence.

By using the Cadet Evaluation System, a firm and effective standard procedure has been established for determining those cadets who are best suited by habits, temperament, and traits of character to assume positions of responsibility within the Corps of Cadets.

PRAYER OF THE CITADEL

Give me a boy, Oh God, who is willing to learn the true value of honor, the necessity of perseverance and loyalty, and the meaningfulness of devotion to God and country. And I shall take this boy as does a blacksmith take a crude piece of metal, and place him over a forge whose liberating flame of education is fired by the bellows of strict military discipline. Into this ingot of a man I shall temper self-respect and self-discipline, fear of God and respect for mankind, appreciation of freedom and awareness of what sacrifices must be made to preserve freedom, and above all an insatiable desire for truth and honesty. And when all these things I have done, I shall brand my finished work with a ring of gold to let all of humanity know that I have given back to the world . . . a Citadel Man.
